THE SENIORS PRESENT

Mr. Raymond Frazier

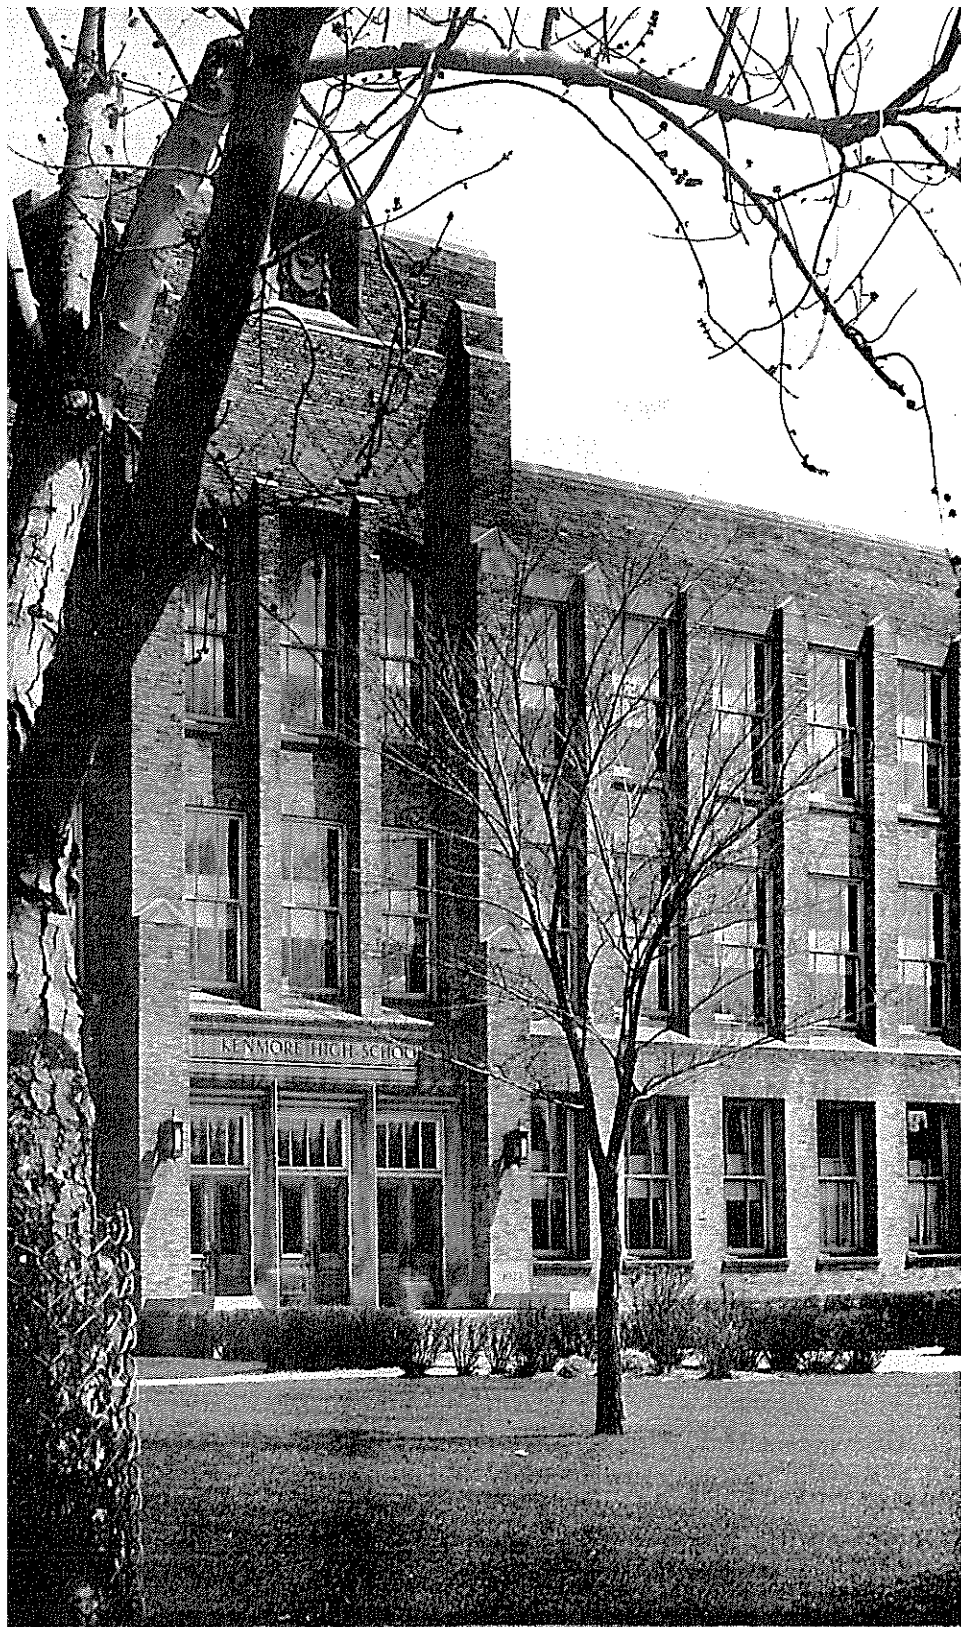

Assistant Principal of

Kenmore High School

STARTING his thirteenth year at Kenmore this last semester, Mr. Frazier has done much in promoting our school organizations as well as aiding the students in their various interests. When he started his work in this school as head of the commercial department, there was only one instructor. Through his deep foresight, which truly characterizes him, he has increased his department to eight teachers in the senior high school. The record of his advancement shows that his staff today is regarded by educational leaders as one of the finest units of its kind in New York State.

Aside from his teaching duties, he has acted as financial director for all school activities and functions. At no time has he failed to help a class or organization in any task that they might choose to undertake. One of the many activities that he has done for several years is his supervisory work of managing all financial affairs of the yearbook, "The Kenitorial."

During the time that he has been at Kenmore all who have known him have admired him for his manner and desire to cooperate. His record stands unchallenged. Our deep respect for him is due to his salient qualities of friendship and understanding for the students both in and out of the class room. It is with the sincere thought in mind that he symbolizes a progressive spirit that the senior class of Kenmore High School dedicates their 1937 "Kenitorial" to Mr. Raymond S. Frazier.

Foreword

EVERY great advancement in the educational system in Kenmore High School has been made with a faith in its background and character. The two colors of our school, blue and white, are the two symbols of that underlying principle of progressive movement. Although these colors appear attractive together, their true significance lies in what they represent: blue for sincerity of purpose, and white for purity of ideals.

These two purposes have entwined themselves around the hearts of the members of the student, faculty, and administrative groups. This same spirit has exemplified itself in this progressive community. Without the necessary strength of foundation, Kenmore would have never reached such a stage of development.

Our school has become much more than a place to come to learn the facts of mathematics, science, English, and the other elements of education. It has become the haven for the expression of the creative energy of youth. It has been the medium that youth has used to strengthen himself physically, mentally, morally, and socially. The influence which it has exerted has done much in extending and preserving American ideals and principles. It is with pride and satisfaction that the Kenmore High School yearbook, "The Kenitorial," for the year 1937 commemorates Kenmore in spirit and the results of its energetic citizens.

EXECUTIVES

R. G. FREEMAN, Principal

"You, the members of the class of 1937, have nearly completed your high school course. I have enjoyed my work with your group but regret that the large size of our school prevents my knowing personally each member of the class. I hope that we may sometime become better acquainted.

I trust that you have benefited by your contacts with the school. Among the aims of our institution are the broadening of your viewpoint, a fuller life, and a greater attainment of the ideals of citizenship.

In the past we have been proud of the records of our graduates. I know that we shall be equally proud of your group and interested in what you may accomplish. May you be happy and successful in your life's work."

Many outside activities, as well as the guiding and instructing of students in their classwork are carried on by the members of the Kenmore High School faculty as part of the school's progressive program.

At faculty meetings held once a month, questions of routine are considered. Enlarging upon the work of the regular faculty meetings, departmental gatherings are also held to discuss new methods of teaching and study. In accordance with the idea that teaching is a profession on a par with medicine and law, teachers keep themselves fit by reading widely and attending summer sessions.

This year the members of the faculty, under the direction of Miss Eve Strong, participated in the performance of "Ladies of the Jury" for the benefit of the P. T. A. Other interests that add variety to faculty life are bridge clubs, riding units, and bowling organizations.

Under the sponsorship of the Boys' Letter Club this year, the male members of the faculty and the varsity basketball squad played two exhibition games.

CALENDAR

SEPTEMBER Once more school books are dragged out from dusty corners and lagging feet are subconsciously directed towards school. Corridors are echoing anew with students relating incidents of their previous vacations. After senior class elections and constant changing of classes, we begin to buckle down to work (?). Teachers are racking their brains trying to learn the names of one-hundred or more students and organize classes at the same time.

OCTOBER Football season is in full swing and "Dick" Offenhamer has our blue and white eleven out on the field plugg'en away for all they're worth, while fans shout themselves hoarse. A new system of issuing report cards is to take effect this year. According to the teachers, it would be wise to install bunks in each room so those students who wish to catch up on their back sleep can be more comfortable.

NOVEMBER Attention is now turned to the winter sports. Basketball practice has begun with Earl Ruckman filling the shoes of coach. "Charlie" Pohl has also plans for the coming swimming season. Directed by Miss Eve Strong, "The Poor Nut" was presented in our auditorium and was a tremendous success. A Book Fair, planned by the English groups, was displayed in our library. After walking around in the crowd of the evening, we triumphantly pronounced our Senior Carnival "tops". Thanksgiving vacation.

DECEMBER Boys' varsity football squad received letters for their excellent sportsmanship, and their hard playing. Faculty and varsity ran themselves ragged on the basketball court trying to prove which one was the better—final score, faculty 18—varsity 17! Basketball season started. Vox pop assembly was featured. Rita Spoor was appointed new editor-in-chief of "The Rostrum." The Christmas vacation was welcomed with "I'll be see'en ya next year!"

JANUARY Decked out in Christmas finery, students resume the "daily grind", pausing long enough to tell, "How good Santa had been." But then not all is smooth sailing and the realization that Regents week is not far off begins to take effect. The monotony is broken only by the weekly basketball games which are proving to be very exciting and enough to take our minds off exams for a short time. Second semester starts and again the offices are packed while students attempt to change their classes.

FEBRUARY We received a day's vacation on Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays. Plans for "The Kenitorial" are in full force. The faculty play, "Ladies of the Jury", packed the auditorium from wall to wall and people shouted their approval. The last basketball game of the season was played against Lackawanna, a game which none who saw it will ever forget. Two overtimes were called before Lackawanna forged ahead by one foul shot, making the score 26-25. It was a grand finale to a grand season. Vacant seats were seen about the school—not hooky: just the Flu epidemic.

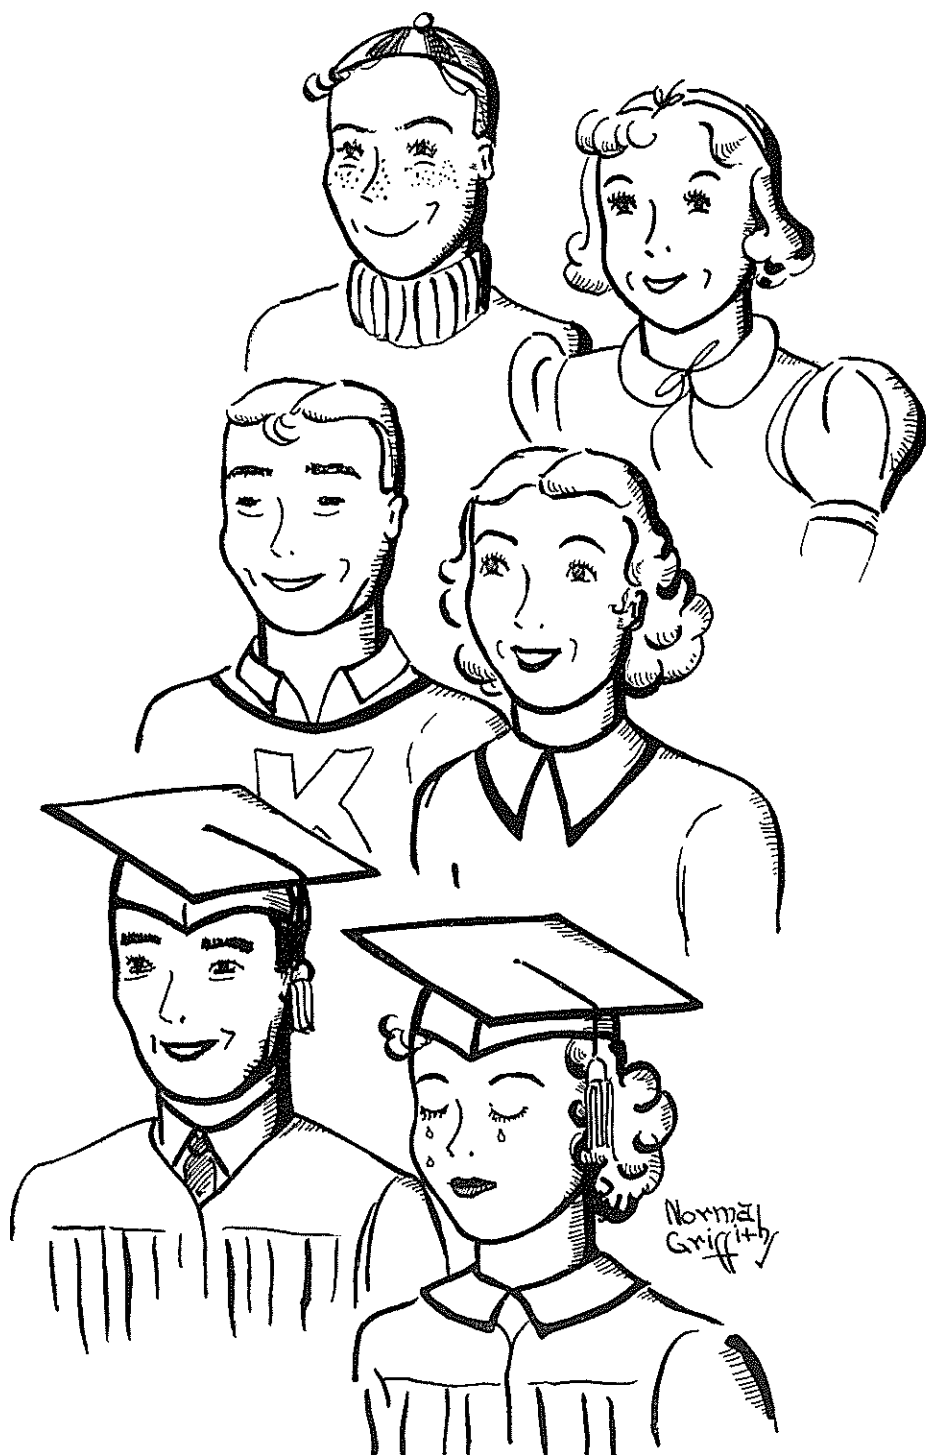

MARCH A rival game of the faculty-varsity teams was played for the second time and "the tables were turned." Varsity won by one point, which made things even! "Bob Burns" Armstrong, auctioned off all the articles lost by students who failed to ask for them. Senior projects have been staring us in the face for some time. Girls' Letter Club presents female athletes with awards. Easter vacation is at hand, much to the relief of all of us.

APRIL Spring athletics get under way, with "Wes" Snyder as coach of the track team. Tennis, and golf practice will be started as soon as the weather permits. The senior play, "The Last Warning," concluded senior activities. So it's orchids to Miss Strong for three successful plays this year. All Kenitorial stories due this month.

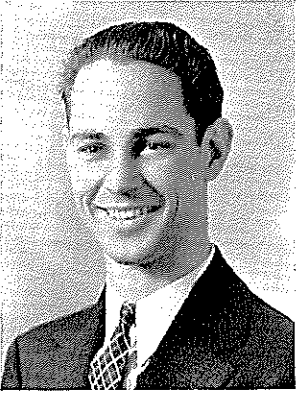

MAY Track season started with the proverbial birds and flowers. Shall we wear "monkey suits," or shall we go sport, or shall we wear semi-formal? That's the question which seems to be the most important one at the moment with the seniors "expecting" to graduate. It is determined that it will be robes for commencement.

JUNE Zone finals in tennis and track ends the sports season. Seniors begin to wonder why they didn't do "that" homework. We go through that week holding our breath and finally the goal is reached, graduation and the receiving of our diplomas. And so the school year of 1937 passes into oblivion. We students who have acquired an education worthy of the future, stand "our trick" at the wheel. The helm is now in our hands and we will do our best to steer a straight course throughout that long journey, until we drop anchor in the final port.

Class History

THE ultimate goal of our elementary education seemed always to be that long awaited day in the future when, upon graduation from ninth grade, we would become members of the senior high school. Our hopes were not to be in vain for we, the class of '37, may look back over three years of fellowship with teachers and students alike, and realize that we have become better individuals through our attendance at Kenmore High School.

Retracing the steps of three years of progress, we are again the rejoicing graduates of junior high school, removing books, notebooks, and stubs of pencils from our lockers on the third floor to our new abodes of the next few years—the cherished second floor lockers. During our sophomore year, we banded together, 250 strong, and elected Horace Curtis to represent us on the Student Council. We were good listeners during that first year, but plans for the future were being formulated in our ever alert minds.

After a refreshing summer vacation, we returned, bronzed by the summer sun, to enter again the familiar doors—this time as wise and learned juniors. It was during this year that we presented the first junior class assembly, which, under the direction of Mr. Clarence R. Vosburgh, proved to be a huge success. Then, amid bunches of toy balloons and crepe paper streamers, Mary Alice Gilchrist and Clare Popalisky reigned as Queen and King of the Junior Prom, while the gym, crowded with gay, laughing couples, resounded with the latest of hit tunes.

At this time we recall with a feeling of deep sorrow the passing of a student beloved by each of us. Barbara Malmquist will long be remembered by teachers and pupils as an ideal student and a true friend.

The officers who guided the class of '37 through its second year of high school were Clare Popalisky, president; Horace Curtis, vice-president; Mary Alice Gilchrist, secretary; Larry Devitt, treasurer; Norma Griffiths, junior representative to the Student Council.

And now we enter upon our last year at Alma Mater, as proud and lordly seniors. Our first great undertaking of the year was the annual Senior Carnival, presented under the guidance of Mr. William Braunton, class adviser. Because of the success of the decorations for our Junior Prom, Norma Griffiths was again chosen to head that committee for the carnival. The walls of the cafeteria were hardly recognizable, bedecked with top-hatted paper turkeys and black and orange streamers.

The final activity undertaken by the class of '37 was the annual senior class play presented under the direction of Miss Eve Strong, the new dramatics instructor. This year's production was a mystery play, "The Last Warning," by Thomas Fallon. Leading roles were taken by Robert Garth, Sally Pope, Millard Schmitt, Peggy Geyer, and Walter Godard.

Besides letting the audience have a view of the inside workings of those organizations called theater groups, "The Last Warning" was filled with romance, humor, and thrilling mystery.

Now, we, the class of 1937 of Kenmore High School, are awaiting our graduation with eager anticipation. Our stay here has been one of our finest experiences. The memories that we cherish, both as undergraduates and graduates, serve as our rightful tribute to our four years in Kenmore High School.

Class Will

HAVING been labeled for expediency "the Class of '37," we are about to depart for that place where the fields are green and the freshmen greener. Exposed to the process of learning for the past twelve years, we are soon to leave these "classic portals" for the last time, and being possessed of a sound mind and body, we do hereby distribute our possessions in the following manner.

Eddie Lowcock leaves to Walter Hagen his ability to bring down the house along with bricks, potted palms, and other available impedimenta.

John Stone bequeaths to Ben Banta his outstanding imitations of a hen laying an egg, which has helped to while away many empty hours spent in class.

LaVerne "Bring 'Em Back Alive" Johnson leaves his reputation as a big game hunter to Harry Richards.

Kenneth Martindale, who has worn out every book in the library, leaves some second-handed spectacles to Tom Bannigan.

Horace Curtis, whose smile would delight any tooth paste manufacturer, leaves with relief his "trials and tribulations" as Student Council president. Melvin Berg urges Harvey Berg to carry on the splendid Berg traditions and to go places and "boo" things.

Bob "Burns" Armstrong leaves to Dick Lane, as the most threatening "comedian" of the junior class, a one way ticket to Van Buren, hoping he will turn native and stay there.

To the senior assembly of next year, we leave some of Harriet Hallenbeck's torchy swing songs, Betty Thiesen's tripping of the light fantastic, and a good W. P. A. orchestra.

Helen Bonchek leaves to the class poet of '38 a rhyming dictionary and her ability to rise early every morning to work on her iambic pentameters, which is as you might say, from bed to verse.

Rita Spoor, who dashes and jumps about like a Mexican bean, leaves to the future editor-in-chief of "The Rostrum," her friendly disposition.

"Pop" Popalisky, whose accomplishments in basketball and football would stretch, approximately from here to there, leaves to Dick Davey his "fighting spirit."

James Duncan leaves to Dick Kratzer, a pair of water wings and a new swimming stroke which is as follows: inhale twice, then bend the head forward and duck under the left arm; make a counter clockwise circle with the right arm and splash water with the left; bend the right leg forward at the knee and kick sideways with both feet. One last point, don't let go of the pool's edge or you'll sink.

Teddy Bowling, who has no idea of what may happen and hopes that it does, leaves a package of bird seed to Al Corti.

John "Darling, don't be like that" Greene, champion browclutcher of the class, leaves his powers of inner thought and concentration to the brain child of the junior class.

Paul Schloerb, treasurer, leaves forty-nine cents from one of his numerous bank accounts to "The Kenitorial" fund for next year.

And so feeling very much like Santa Claus, we conclude our bequests. If, however, our estate is not sufficiently large to cover these numerous legacies, just forget the whole business.

In witness, whereof, I, the testator for the 1937 Kenmore High School Senior Class, have hereunto affixed my name this early day of June 1937.

Class Prophecy

GOOD evening, ladies and gentlemen of the radio audience. This is your cub reporter with her scrapbook of outstanding events of today and the near future.

On the stage we have a revival of a popular, 1937, New York play. "Idiot's Delight" is now being graced by Miss Jane Lovejoy, formerly of Kenmore. Miss Lovejoy offers a brilliant performance, and Rita Spoor, editor of New York's "Play Prophet," predicts an outstanding future for "the budding queen of America's stage."

Next week to the Radio City Music Hall comes Robert Armstrong and his repertoire of laughs. Those who attended Mr. Armstrong's former New York appearance are eagerly awaiting his latest show. An added attraction this season is Ronald Hassler, famous ventriloquist and noise maker. If you plan to attend, get your tickets quickly for few seats are left.

The week of the twenty-fifth of this month the Metropolitan Opera Company offers a coming prima donna in the person of Miss Harriet Hallenbeck from Buffalo, the city of marvelous singers. Mr. Walter Godard, famous as a pianist, will direct the orchestra, while Calvin Williamson, noted violinist, leads the string section.

In December, the Philharmonic Orchestra arrives in our city, featuring Edward Lowcock as trumpet soloist. Mr. Lowcock has had an outstanding success in the cities where he has already played.

With a quick change of tempo, the rhythm centers are featuring William Harrison and his music makers, with Miss Betty Havens doing vocal interpretations. Also featured on the program is Dave Hennigar with his versions of swing songs. Just the place for a lively evening!

The sport league presents its fans with a notable program this week when they offer Clare Popalisky and his basketball team including "Heinie" Schmohl, "Don" Care, and "Dave" Bisset. An added attraction are the cheerleading girls; Sally Davies and Sally Pope, with their collection of cheers from famous colleges.

Mr. William Beier, the city's most prominent broker, has just returned from Europe where he conferred with the representatives of leading European countries on the question of international credit. Mr. Beier is quoted as saying, "Lovely place, Europe, especially Paris." We notice, however, that he had little to say about the decisions of the conference.

The new city hospital has just been opened to the public. The staff of departmental heads is herewith offered to the public for future reference. Miss Fern Bickerton is in charge of the dental department, assisted by Miss Marion Pergande. Miss Virginia Lane is head of the laboratory technicians; Miss Norma Krause is superintendent of nurses. In connection with the nursing staff, Miss Irene Haas has charge of a trained Nurses' Registry.

Coming to the city next Friday is Miss Gladys Amidon and her ideal secretaries, Miss Lorraine Brotherston and her phenomenal typing, Miss Lois McKinney, spectacular shorthand writer, and Miss June McIntosh illustrating the correct performance of a secretary in the presence of her employer. This promises to be a novel offering.

The National High School Teachers' Convention was held in Chicago last week. Outstanding workers in each field of learning spoke about their particular fields of endeavor. Miss Jane Hawthorne gave a talk on "France and French Customs," illustrated with slides taken in France, and French exhibits. Our Chicago reporter informs us that it was side splitting to behold

(Concluded)

Miss Anne Lahrs, nation-wide authority on English and speech, leading a demonstration of rhythm in poetry. Even the most "austere" relax, and evidently, not always in private.

A young man named Roger Scott is receiving great acclaim on the legitimate stage as a comedian of the "dead-pan" type. Mr. Scott had for several years been endeavoring to gain an audition for stage work, and when recently given the chance to appear, made a great success.

The two new offices in the city hall building which have been causing so much comment finally have names on the doors. Both are going to open on comfortable people, one being the office of Robert Drewery, M. D., while the other discloses Robert Caughill, D.D.S. Since both these men are employees of the city, they will probably hold down jobs just as long as they pull no political teeth.

It is rumored that the next election will disclose many surprises in the way of candidates of Buffalo and vicinity. Charles Conn has made great strides in politics and will probably run for mayor of Buffalo. Republican John Marshall is being considered for state senator.

The footstep follower of Walter Winchell, Trudy Elliott, informed us that Hollywood considers itself very lucky with its recent find, Mary Alice Gilchrist. This young star will soon be seen in a revival of "Girls' Dormitory," co-starring with George Scrimshaw. Vivian Parry and Bill Kimber, popular stars, are being reunited in a forthcoming picture, the name of which is as yet undecided.

Mr. Frank Summers, general overseer of Buffalo Shea Theatres, announced that there will be several benefit performances for children during the coming months. Buffalo's superintendent of schools, John Green, is selecting suitable pictures for the youngsters. Miss Aileen Noxxel is at the head of a committee to secure lower prices for school children in the neighborhood theatres. It seems that these are only the first of a series of such performances to be instigated by Mayors Harold Loder of Rochester, and John Kibby of Albany.

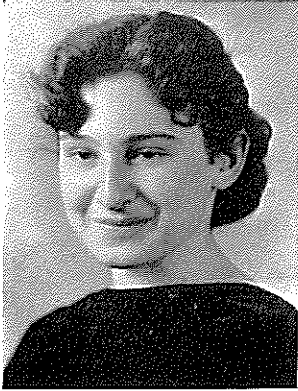

Miss Betty Thiesen, renowned dancer, has just returned from Europe where she has been studying her art. Miss Thiesen will soon go on a tour of important cities for which extremely clever posters have been designed by Miss Norma Griffiths, outstanding art editor, and George Cochern, leading commercial artist.

Speaker of the House, Horace Curtis, has already broken three gavels in his hectic pounding for order in the opening minutes of Congress. Serious debating is being waged whether or not the new plans for a series of public buildings in Washington, D. C. should be considered. A strong bloc of representatives, along with the speaker, have pledged their support to Robert Garth, famous architect, who designed the proposed buildings. A new and interesting book on boxing called "Punching My Way to Fame" by William Goss and Richard Hofner, has just been placed on the market by the Joseph Dearing Publishing Company.

Paul Schloerb, Wall Street's new finance king, has just been arrested by the federal government for hoarding gold in his false teeth. A group of paintings has just been added to the famous Mellon Art Collection in the art building at Washington. The latest acquisitions include paintings by Miss Betty Crawford, and Miss Betty Dyer-Hurdon, famous for her originality, and modern interpretations by Charles Lunney.

That is all the news that is available today. This is your reporter signing off for the senior class of 1937.

HELEN K. BONCHEK

From Then to Now

1889:

A wilderness met their eyes
And an army of trees barred their ways,
Rushing waters hissed in the distance,
While Indians, weary of the day's fishing,
Greeted the strangers with scrutinizing glances.
So they came and settled in this year 1889
And built their homes facing the tree army
And took up the offense instead of the defense
And hewed the army of trees into submission.
Of the trees that surrendered to them
Logs were made, and of the logs
A little house was built;
A house with one room
A house that shivered in the blasts of wind
The conquered trees could not keep off,
A house with no path heading up to its door;
A house with a small chimney that puffed
Gray bits of smoke into the winter air;
A house whose paint blistered and cracked
In the summer heat.
And those that came?
An insignificant group of children,
Numbering, one way or another, fifty.
A number meager and meaningless to us who came in thousands.
They shivered through snow drifts
Or rode sleds to the little house in the Unprotected open
To get from one teacher, the jewels
That insignificant little house could offer;
Jewels more priceless than those found in diamond mines:
Education.
1889—The first trees fallen built the first school of Kenmore.
Through sun, snow, and rain the little house stood,
Sagging gradually beneath the weight of weather,
And when at last, its aged boards split
And the winter crept in between the defenseless cracks
In its feeble walls, it surrendered its power
To the church and its little room reserved for learning.

1891:

Twenty-one voters met to make firm the word:
For or against the building of a new
Institution for learning for the droves of children
That scrambled in the muddy roads
Of this town, so eager to grow.
The ballots were passed—the pencils scribbled;
Pencils that had learned to write
The writer's will; will that had learned to express itself
By absorbing the offerings of some other little school house.
Eleven to ten—eleven to ten in favor of building
A new school for the younger generation of Kenmore.

*From Then
to Now*

(Concluded)

But the ten who voted "against" were angry.
"Petition! Petition!" They cried, and only a petition could decide.
Forty people signed it. Forty people sanctioned the building of a new school.

One plot of land was purchased.
One plot of muddy soil, not fertile enough for crops,
But wealthy enough in strength to uphold
1892: The house of education to be placed upon its breast.
And in the year 1896, the school
Opened its doors wide to welcome one teacher
And the first forty week term.
In and out the pupils came and went,
Entering with pencils in their eager hands,
And leaving with their precious diplomas clutched in their fists.
The desks offered no resistance to the persistent
Scratching of pens, and they bore proudly
The initials etched upon their backs by innocent youngsters.
But thirteen years chastised the school
And brought to mind the necessity of a new and larger one
For the increasing population of youth.

Eager hands gave forth the necessary funds,
1909: And down came the old school building
While up went a new.
Seven years later new wings were added
And in and out streamed those who came to learn
And those who had learned.
In in the mornings, out in the afternoons.
Hours of play and some of homework,
A long night's sleep before again joining
The endless bread line for education.
Time marched on and those who had learned
Went out into the world, and those who had just come into it
Were raised and groomed to be sent to school.

To be sent to the new school,
The school that the board fought for 1924: With bitter words and declarations,
And just as bitterly they fought
To decorate the grounds in order to make the school
A place to enjoy outwardly as well as inwardly.
Then came the pupils-new and old to the new.
The reluctant, the eager, the noncommittal—
All filed into the massive building
That blossomed a new wing as large as the first
Before much time had gone by.
You and I—when we sit and view the names
Scratched on the desks (yours and mine among them)
And the ruthless whittlings of some youth's knife,
Realize that our school days are ending
And that the school that sheltered us
Through all these years is opening the doors that held us in
To let us out.
There will be some who will remember
Their school, and there will be those
Who will go out and rise above the average
And forget where they began.
You and I? Where do we go when we leave?
Each has his plans, but when he leaves,
Another will move into his place and etch his name over the former's,
And in his turn, he, too, will make way for another.
And all this from the year 1889 to the year 1937.

JUNIOR OFFICERS

As the school year opened, the junior class of 1936-1937 chose as their president, Alfred Corti. Roy Weber was elected vice-president; Rhoda Ann Duddleston, secretary; Harry Richards, treasurer; and Jane Ackerman, representative to the Student Council.

The junior assembly, "The Ball and Chain Follies," was produced April 20 under the direction of Richard Lane and Theodore Siekmann, class adviser.

One of the highlights of the year was the "Coronation" Junior Prom held on May 14 in the school gymnasium. Following the season's headlines, the decorations were patterned after the coronation. Robert Dodd headed the prom committee, assisted by Norma Zittle and Benjamin Banta, co-chairmen.

"We have been able to show a measure of our abilities in school athletics and other extra-curricular activities. We hope that next year we may carry on the excellent work of this year's graduating class," declared Alfred Corti, junior class president.

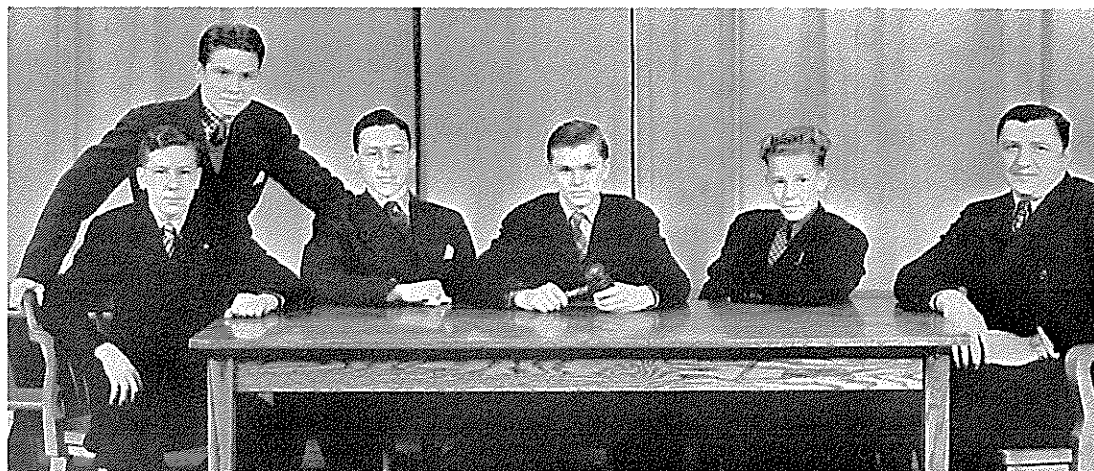

For the first time in the school's history, the sophomore class was given regular class officers following a vote of the student body last November upon the suggestion of the Student Council. Officers elected for the second-year group are: Ward Moore, president; Henry Farley, vice-president; Robert Spitzer, secretary; Ted Wilcox, treasurer; and Richard Down, representative to the Student Council.

With its aim to enable more incoming sophomores to enter into school activities, a sophomore mimeographed handbook is being compiled by a committee of sophomores and seniors. The handbook will include vital facts concerning the administration and extra-curricular activities in the senior high school. A detailed explanation of the student government is also to be inserted.

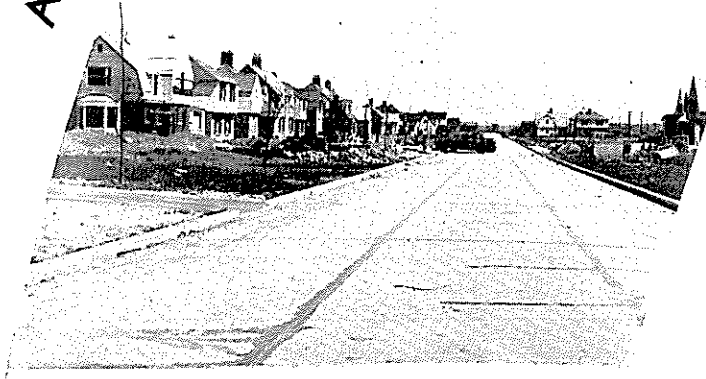

The class put on a musical comedy in April entitled "Hospital Hectics," produced by members of the sophomore class and George Barna, class adviser. A theater party was scheduled for May 13, and all profits from the party went toward a sophomore picnic held in June.

First Row: H. Farley, T. Wilcox, R. Spitzer, W. Moore, R. Down, G. J. Barna.

AROUND THE TOWN

Modern highways . . . homes under construction . . . beautiful parks . . . industrial development . . . and a new municipal building show Kenmore's progressive spirit and the accomplishments of its energetic citizens.

A collage of black and white photographs depicting various scenes of school life. The images are arranged in a circular, overlapping pattern. Scenes include students in classrooms, hallways, and outdoors. Some photos show students working at desks, others show them in groups, and some show them in more formal settings. The collage captures a wide range of student activities and environments.

P. M.

HUMOR

They asked me to write a humor page. Probably the best way to start off is like an after-dinner speaker who keeps drinking water to procrastinate his speech, and his listeners lean back to make him stop delaying.

Not everything out of the ordinary is humorous. When we speak of time sequence, however, I cannot help but recall the incident that happened in school some years ago. A little boy named Walter (taken from the "Godard's Album of Great Deeds" which wasn't willed to the incoming class) had been absent a whole day from school, and the teacher next morning sent him home to get an excuse from his mother. Presently he came running back and handed the paper to his teacher. It read as follows: "Dear Teacher: Please excuse Walter from being away yesterday. He got all wet in the A. M. and had to be dried in the P. M."

You boys probably know how John Kibby comes around trying to arrange dates with your girl. Well, I just wanted to tell you how he got started. Way back when Master Kibby was nine years old, he came sniffing into the presence of his father. "What's the matter with you," demanded his father. John stifled a sob. "I've just had a terrible scene with your wife," was the reply.

I can't help but think of Mr. Pitkin and his stories, and so to do him one better I am going to tell you about Egbert. "Egbert", said one of the hallroom boys to the other, "I want to ask you a very personal question. If I take a girl out for the evening and show her a good time at the movies and on the way home buy her an ice cream soda, do you think I should kiss her when I tell her goodbye," Egbert thought for a few minutes. "No," he said at length, "don't you kiss her. You've done enough for her."

You see, I've been saving these jokes up for a few years. I heard them 'way back sometime ago and I thought if I held on to them long enough, they would come back into style. Just look at the people who held on to their Liberty Bonds.

Most of you, I guess, know John Byrn. I sat in English class the other day, trying to think how he would talk at home, and if he ever did make any mistakes. Apparently he did, for one day, with lagging steps and dropping head, he came into the presence of his mother. She could not see his face, for it was averted, but as he came near her she caught on his breath the odor of tobacco. "Oh, John!", she cried, "Naughty, naughty! You've been smoking. You'll be sick." Politely, but weakly, John replied: "Thank you, mother. I'm dying."

While stopping at a hotel with our President of the Student Council, everything went fine. No complaints had been made by either party, but on the day of our departure he went down to the office for the bill. He then studied the check very carefully and then paid the total bill, after which he left the cashier's wicket and walked around to the desk where the manager sat. "Pardon me," said Horace, "but am I right in assuming that you welcome suggestions from patrons?" "We do," said the manager. "Our constant aim is to increase the efficiency of our service." Horace replied, "Then I have something to suggest. I have noticed that in your guest rooms, conspicuously posted where one in leaving will see it, is a small framed placard bearing a sign as follows: 'HAVE YOU LEFT ANYTHING?' I suggest this wording be altered to read: 'HAVE YOU ANYTHING LEFT?'"

The only story I could think of that would fit those fellows who collected your money for this book was a Scotch joke. But I think you'll agree with me that it is appropriate when you see the rest of the book.

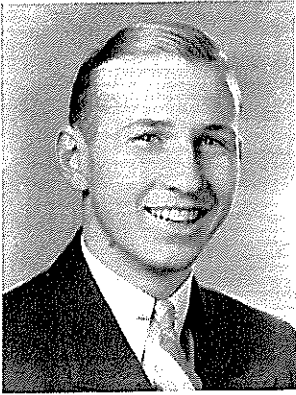

It is alleged that a Scotchman awoke one morning to find that during the night his wife had died. After one glance at the stark form, he leaped out of bed and ran into the hall. "Mary," he called down to the general servant in the kitchen, "come to the front of the stairs, quick." "Yes," she cried, "what is it?" "Only one egg for breakfast this morning".

The best way to close this article is to tell you my favorite story about the two boys saying their evening prayers. The younger brother who had been undressed, knelt at his mother's knee, and then had been bundled off for the night. The older boy was in the middle of his devotions when his little brother from the adjoining room called out to him. The devotee remained silent. "Say, Bill," called out the younger child, "what's the matter with you? Why don't you speak back to me?" Aggravated beyond control, Bill raised his head. "GO TO THE DEVIL," he shouted, "I'M SAYING MY PRAYERS".

With the editorial staff standing in constant fear of the copy readers' blue pencils and the business department similarly skeptical of the red ink, the fourteenth volume of "The Kenitorial" of Kenmore High School, which is published by the senior class, was issued this June.

Selecting the spirit of Kenmore as the theme, editors Norma Griffiths and Horace Curtis prepared the original make-up while the staff members completed their assignments. Paul Schloerb and Robert Drewery, business managers, conducted the subscription campaign and solicited advertisements.

Staff members are: photography, Charles Conn, Mary Ann Berg, Norma Krause, Mildred Guess, Millard Schmitt, Jane Lovejoy, Sally Davies; Senior class, Rita Spoor, Mary Alice Gilchrist, Jean Hauser, Sally Pope, William Goss, John Stone; organizations, Anne Lahrs, Ann Earl, Clare Popalisky, Edward Lowcock, Robert Garth, Alice Christopher, Marion Pergande; sports, Melvin Barrett, Howard Round, David Bissett, Peggy Geyer; faculty, Betty Andersen, Betty Thiesen; calendar, Trudy Elliott; art, Norma Griffiths, Charles Lunney, Robert Armstrong; secretarial, Doris Scott, Grace House, Donald Burke, and Marguerite Thompson.

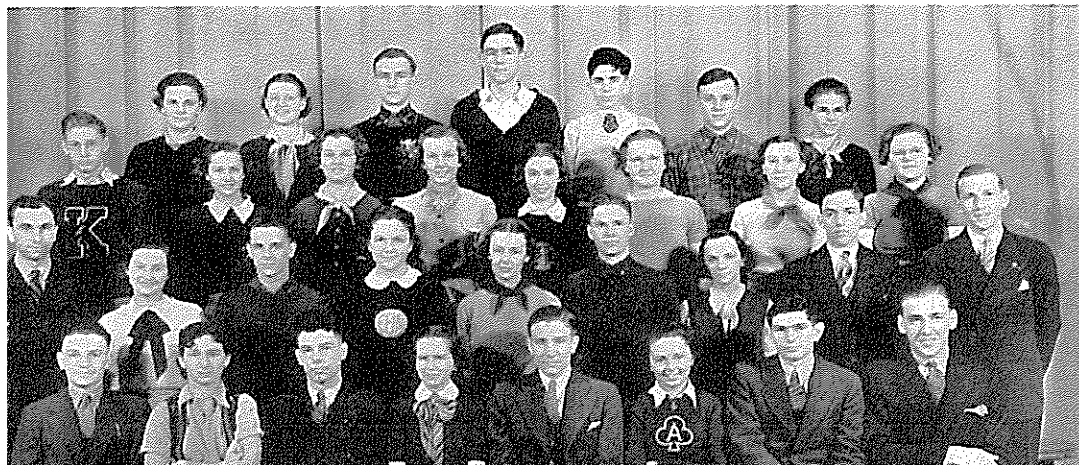

With new features in the form of enlivening editorials by Helen Bonchek, and Faculty articles by Howard Round, "The Rostrum," under the editorship of Rita Spoor, issued six publications this year. Mr. Clarence R. Vosburgh, English and journalism teacher, completed his second year as adviser for the paper.

At the beginning of the school term, a campaign which was suggested and sponsored by the Student Council offering six issues for twenty-five cents was conducted by the business staff. Continuing its policy of "spot" news, "The Rostrum" has again offered its readers the latest of school events.

The former editor of "The Rostrum," Horace Curtis, was awarded a scholarship to Syracuse University as the outstanding student journalist in New York State.

Among the awards won by "The Rostrum" last year were the first division merit honor at the third annual high school press conference at Syracuse University, and a blue ribbon in the first class division at the Western New York Interscholastic Press Association.

ROSTRUM

STUDENT COUNCIL

*First Row: R. Freeman, N. Griffiths, H. Curtis, J. Ackerman, W. Braunton.
Second Row: W. Moore, C. Popalisky, A. Corti, R. Down.*

WITH more acts of official business on its docket than any other previous council in the history of the school, the 1936-37 Student Council accomplished a record of twenty-four of the most important forms of business including five measures which have changed the entire program of school affairs.

The five big accomplishments recorded by the council under the direction of Horace Curtis, president, are described briefly in the following manner. At the beginning of the year the Student Council suggested a new plan of subscription for "The Rostrum." Students were to receive six issues of the paper for twenty-five cents. Besides trying a new experiment in the election of the senior class president, the council suggested a new plan of voting for all classes which was passed unanimously by the student body in November. After investigating the possibility of sophomore class officers, the Council recommended to the student body that the second year class be given regular officers. The student body agreed and the plan was put into effect immediately.

In order to aid the incoming council on the problem of raising funds, the Student Council passed a resolution that the faculty play for next year be sponsored by the council and all proceeds be given to the general fund for assemblies, to "The Rostrum," and to the debate team. This will enable the debate team to have the necessary financing along with help for proper assembly programs and a school newspaper.

The final piece of important legislation was the approving of the new rules which are to govern the selection of cheer leaders, as well as their number, requirements, and duties. This is the first time that a complete system has been designed since the first draft of rules by the 1932 Student Council.

Besides printing necessary football and basketball-swimming schedules and other announcements pertaining to school events, the council assisted in the formation of the Boys' Letter Club and offered several suggestions to be carried out by that group. After the cheerleading squad was organized under the direction of Louis Rekoon, and the assembly committee appointed, season basketball tickets were offered to the student body. The Tonawanda pep rally, the most outstanding rally of the year, and the novel basketball assembly in the school gymnasium, were also planned and directed by the council.

As part of the council's extensive program for recognition for the school, a radio program was held over station WKBW, Buffalo, for the purpose of introducing the two school coaches, Earl Ruckman, Charles Pohl, and also Mr. Roy Freeman, principal, and Mr. Carl Baisch, assistant principal. This was followed by two new features, the new pen offer and the sale of magic slates. Both were conducted by the Sub-Council. The proceeds from the sale of magic slates added several dollars to the assembly fund. The pen offer was made to students who wanted to trade in their worn out pens for reconditioned ones.

After handling the election of the sophomore officers, a "lost-and-found locker" was put into full operation with all lost material being stored under the supervision of Mr. John Lung. Many valuable articles were recovered by their owners and more lost material was returned to their owners than ever before, according to Mr. Lung. An auction conducted by the council appointee, Robert Armstrong, was held later in the year and all proceeds went to the assembly fund.

As part of its dance program, student dances were held every other week except during the spring weather and basketball season. Dancing after games was directed by Charles Conn. Class assemblies were also held upon the suggestion of the council and several school organizations put on programs at the council's request.

Following its aim to develop Kenmore spirit through its various organizations and interests and trying to mend the flaws in student government, the council ended its activities by inducting the new president. The members of this year's council were: Horace Curtis, president; Clare Popalisky, senior class president; Norma Griffiths, senior class representative to the Student Council; Al Corti, president of the junior class; Jane Ackerman, junior class representative to the Student Council; Ward Moore, sophomore class president; Richard Down, sophomore class representative to the Student Council, Mr. William Braunton, senior class adviser, and Mr. Roy Freeman, principal.

Created one year ago as an experiment of student government in the home rooms, the Sub-Council, unit of the Student Council, has become an active organization in its purpose of carrying on student activities in Kenmore High School under the direction of Horace Curtis, Student Council president.

The group first met in October and approved the new Student Council docket for the remainder of the semester. Charles Conn was appointed chairman of student dancing and Donald Burke was given the right to head the committee on song assemblies. Another group was designated to take charge of the season sport tickets while information desk clerks were also chosen.

The Sub-Council supervised the sale of magic slates which were sold to raise money for the school assembly fund. A pen exchange offer was announced to the student body and many took advantage of this opportunity. The group also came to the support of the Red Cross and aided in collecting the necessary money, food, and clothing.

Two of the biggest problems handled by the Sub-Council during the last semester were the reorganization of the present cheerleading rules and completion of the new sophomore handbook which is to be issued to the incoming students next year.

The cheerleading rules, outlined by President Horace Curtis, were amended by the Sub-Council members. The final approved copy included the cheerleaders' length of time, attendance requirement, eligibility, duties, work of head cheerleader, and method of selection. All cheerleaders shall be selected at the beginning of the fall semester by a committee composed of three students and two faculty members. The rules were then sent to the Student Council for ratification.

The handbook which included school regulations and requirements was under the direction of Marion Pergande, chairman; Virginia Lane; and Ward Moore, president of the sophomore class. Robert Dodd and Warren Anderson replaced Charles Conn as dance chairmen. Harry Richards was appointed the Sub-Council's representative to the school assembly committee.

Active both socially and financially, the Literary Club strived in the past year to give its members an opportunity for a wider range of "experiences in literature."

By stressing poetry of foreign lands, the organization carried out its theme, "Places and Poetry." Travel talks were presented at various meetings by Miss Mary Margaret Cook on Mexico and by Miss Elizabeth Lewis on Norway and Sweden. With Miss Esther Hepinstall as adviser, the following officers presided: Betty Andersen, Regent; Aileen Noxsel, Vice-Regent; Virginia Lane, Scribe; Ruth Lyon, Keeper of the Exchequer.

Keeping up the Christmas spirit, as well as for the purpose of increasing the finances of the treasury, the Literary Club carried on a sale of holly during the holiday season.

Consisting of fifty girls taking third and fourth year English, the club meets the third Tuesday of every month. As is the custom of the Literary Club, the girls presented the school library with a gift of a collection of poetry books.

Patterned after the P. E. N. Club which has units all over the country, Alpha Phi Lambda is the only high school organization of its kind in Western New York. Its purpose, "to kindle the flame of literature," is the basis for its program of activities.

As part of the regular meetings, members criticize each other's writings to improve literary style. Admission is gained only by juniors and seniors who submit articles for approval by the club. If deemed worthy by the majority of the members, the person is invited to join.

The major activity of the year is the publishing of "The Flame," original mimeographed issue containing works of the members. This year a short story contest was conducted with an anthology of short stories as the prize. Among the features of the year's meetings was an address by Lance Zavitz of the "Buffalo Evening News."

Officers of the group are: Howard Round, president; Kenneth Martindale, treasurer; Ruth Lyon, secretary; and Miss Elizabeth Chittenden, faculty adviser.

ALPHA PHI LAMBDA

DEBATE TEAM

First Row: T. Bannigan, H. Curtis, G. Scrimshaw, W. Braunton, B. Doyle, J. Greene, R. Gordon, P. Schloerb.

With the affirmative team winning three debates and losing only one while the negative squad, meeting its opponents out of town, won one, lost two and tied one, the Kenmore High School debaters encountered five different high schools in verbal combat this year under the coaching of Mr. William Braunton.

This season was inaugurated with both teams holding decisive wins over the Le Roy High School on the question, "Resolved: That the Government should own and operate the munitions industry." The question then changed for the remaining four debates, "Resolved: That the Government should own and operate the electric utility industry."

The affirmative team of Robert Gordon, Paul Schloerb, John Greene and Betty Doyle, alternate; won 2 to 1 victories over Jamestown, Avon, and Tonawanda. George Scrimshaw, Thomas Bannigan, and Horace Curtis, of the negative team held a decision over Avon and lost two closely contested debates to Hornell and Tonawanda. Their most thrilling meet was at Hornell where they held the veteran team to a tie.

This year's Honor Club, consisting of twenty-three boys and twenty-three girls, ties the 1932 class for record membership, according to the annual honorary scholarship society's roll recently announced by Roy G. Freeman, principal of Kenmore High School.

Restricting its membership to only those who have maintained an average of eighty-five per cent in final Regents examinations during their first three and one-half years of high school, the Honor Club is the only honorary group with the exception of the Thespians.

However, contrary to last year's intelligence, the male sex has stolen a march, and has gained both the valedictorian and salutatorian honors this year. Valedictorian John Greene, winner of the Junior Plaque of 1936 awarded to the junior having the highest average, is the honor student. He is closely followed by salutatorian Richard Durbin.

Although the Honor Club has one of the largest memberships of any group in the school, it is entirely without regular officers or advisers. Mr. Freeman has charge of the computation of all averages.

To Mr. William Brauntun goes the credit of organizing thirty-five junior and senior boys, known as the Kenmore Senior Hi-Y Club, who have been outstanding in their activities and in their purpose of creating, maintaining, and extending high standards of Christian character.

The high-light of the club's program was the deputation team, composed of five speakers: Robert Drewery, John Greene, Robert Garth, Charles Conn, and Horace Curtis. This team won state-wide fame in presenting the subject, "Religion—Its Place in the History of the United States," to church congregations of Western New York and by broadcasting over the Allied Youth radio program.

Holding weekly meetings on Monday evenings, the members gather at the North Delaware YMCA. The meeting consists of a fellowship supper, short devotional period, and the discussion hour on problems confronting students. The officers this year were George Scrimshaw, President; John Greene, Vice-President; Robert Drewery and Robert Garth, Secretaries; Paul Schloerb, Treasurer; and Horace Curtis, Representative to the city Hi-Y council.

Participating in the principal conference at the Resident Home in Buffalo, and presenting a Christmas entertainment at the Central YWCA, the Girl Reserve Club has completed its regular program.

The organization of thirty-five members, under the direction of Miss Ver Dine, has participated in activities of the district. Mary Hamilton and Mary Ann Berg were appointed the delegates to the Western New York Girl Reserve Conference at Jamestown February 26-28. At this conference, "How to Spend One's Leisure Time" and "How to Improve the Clubs" were discussed.

Under the presidency of Harriet Hallenbeck, the club conducts its affairs every Wednesday afternoon at the North Delaware YWCA and the following week at Kenmore High School.

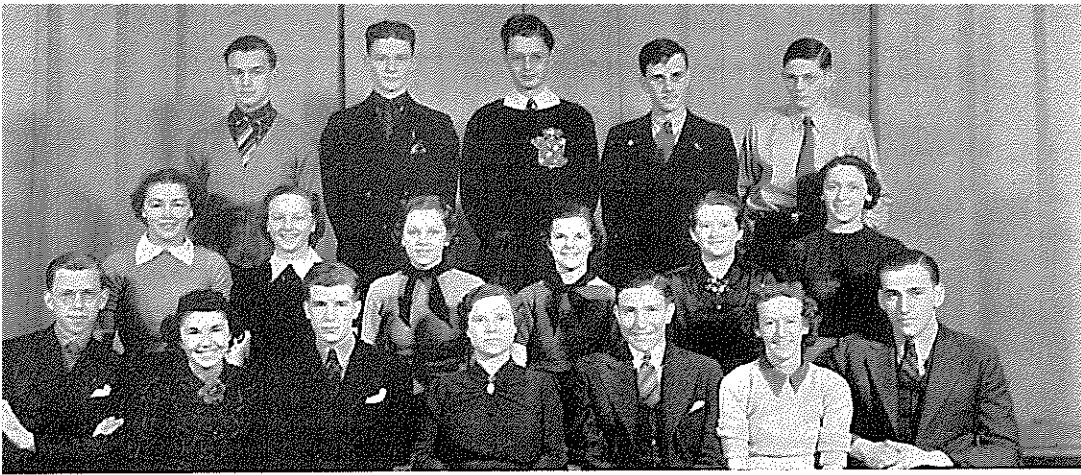

Besides its regular weekly meetings, the club held a tea for the new members who entered the organization in September. A Saint Patrick's Day dance was held March twentieth, under the chairmanship of Sally Pope.

Other officers of the club include: Mary Hamilton, vice-President; Gertrude Neef, secretary; and Sally Pope, treasurer.

Sixteen new members were added to the Thespian organization, honorary dramatic society, this year advised by Miss Eve Strong. To join the Thespian organization the members had to qualify with one of the following: seventy lines in one three-act play, thirty-two lines in two one-act plays, or act as a stage manager of two three-act plays.

In the fall only three Thespians remained in school. They were: Paul Schloerb of "Big Hearted Herbert," Harriet Hallenbeck for two one-act plays, and Rhoda Ann Duddleston of "Growing Pains," which play also gave eligibility to Mary Alice Gilchrist and Jean Brockett.

The Dramatic Club's presentation, "The Poor Nut," made George Scrimshaw, Betty Andersen, Edward Lowcock, Allyn Kimball, Paul Lathrop and Kay Southard eligible.

For their work in "The Last Warning," the senior class play, Peggy Geyer, Sally Pope, Millard Schmitt, Robert Garth, Walter Godard, and Roger Scott were admitted to the Thespians. Marion Pergande and Edwin Stewart qualified for entrance by participating in "Miss Lulu Bett."

"The Poor Nut" presented November nineteenth and twentieth by the Kenmore High School Dramatic Club was the first in a series of major productions directed by Miss Eve Strong, teacher of dramatics and English.

In cooperation with the Student Council, the club brought two speakers, Robert Zimmerman, deep sea diver, and R. A. Talcott, dramatist, who read "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." The society also purchased a film for motion pictures of the football team in action.

For the first time since its formation, the dramatic group participated in a state-wide contest held at Ithaca College where a few members of the club presented a one-act play.

Miss Strong conducted studies in dramatics for the benefit of members of the club, and initiated new members into the Thespian organization.

Officers of the club are: Rhoda Ann Duddleston, President; Paul Schloerb, Vice-President; Mary Ann Berg, Secretary; and Norma Griffiths, Treasurer. Heads of the committee are: Betty Andersen, social; and Marion Pergande, refreshments.

As part of this year's programs, several interesting talks have been given by outside speakers. Miss Eve Strong spoke on dramatics, and Mr. Raymond Frazier gave helpful pointers on obtaining a position. Mrs. Luella Fisher of the Iroquois Gas Company spoke on personal qualifications of a secretary.

Other activities of the year included a Christmas party, and a movie benefit at Shea's Kenmore theater.

At commencement the club will give a five dollar award to the senior girl having the highest average in the commercial department for the past four years.

This year's officers for the Secretarial Club included Agnes Bard, president; Madaline Moore, Vice-President; Lily Millers, secretary; and Jean Mannear, treasurer. Miss Beatrice Hunt is the club's adviser.

Several noted authorities in their special branches of modern science addressed the Kenmore Science Club at their monthly meetings this year. The club under the advisership of Mr. Clifford Scouten, physics teacher, is conducted in the physics laboratory or in the music room.

Accompanying his talk with colored slides, Ellsworth Jaeger, editor of "Wonder Trails" in the Buffalo Evening News, spoke at the October meeting on "Wonder Trails in the Old South West". In November, Dr. Solomon of the New York State Cancer Institute, illustrated a talk on the various forms of cancer and methods of cure.

Other meetings of equal interest featured speakers as Dr. Alexander Swarcman of the Spencer Kellogg Company, Arthur Hammond, liquid air authority of Lafayette High School, and Dr. Donald Kumro of East High School who discussed "Science in Everything in General."

Organized last year with the approval of the Student Council, the Girls' Letter Club conducted the girls' letter day assembly in March under the direction of Betty Smith, president, as one of its major activities of the year.

This was the first time that such an assembly was held by a girls' athletic organization. Besides awarding letters to girl athletes, the club presented pictures on sports. After the Easter vacation, members of the group organized badminton matches in the gymnasium.

According to the club's constitution which was adopted last year, the girls must obtain a letter in some special sport in order to be eligible for membership. Girls who have received three different letters are eligible for a pin given by the club.

Convening once every month, the girls carry on their business sessions and list of activities. In September the following officers were elected: Betty Smith, president; Mary Swedish, vice-president; Marjorie Epes, treasurer; and Harriet Hallenbeck, secretary. Miss Marie Kauffman is athletic adviser.

With the election of John Kibby as president and assisted by football coach Richard Offenhamer, the Boys' Letter Club got off to the most active year in its history.

The football assembly presented in October was followed shortly by a varsity-faculty game which was sponsored by the letter-men. The proceeds from this game were used for a banquet held in honor of the faculty and the varsity. The remaining money was donated for sweat pants for the basketball team.

The Letter Club then organized and carried out the pep assembly which preceded the final game between the varsity and the faculty. Twenty-five dollars was given to the student assembly fund. The club next held a dance at the Legion Hall with Wally Carpenter's orchestra supplying the music on March 22. The final activity was the letter assembly for basketball and swimming in April.

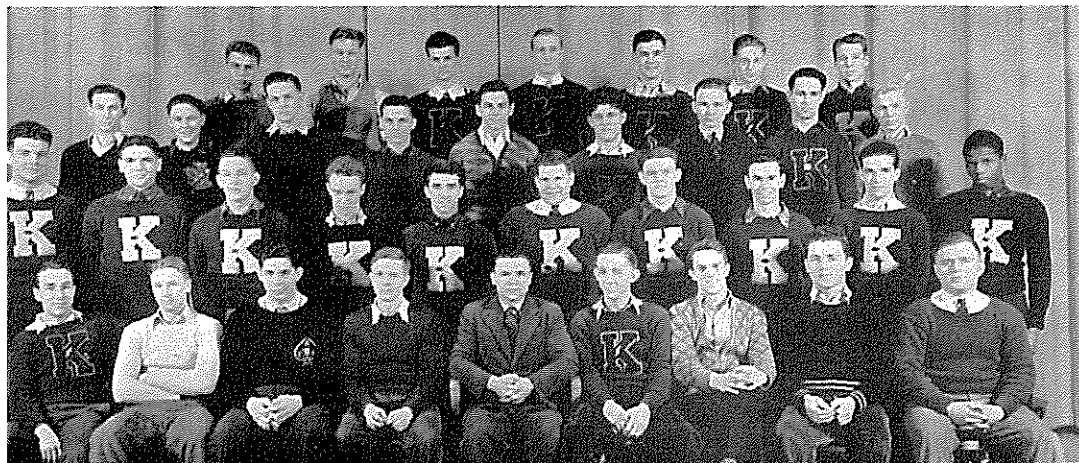

The officers are: John Kibby, president; Clare Popalisky, vice-president; Clare Schneider, treasurer; David Hennigar, secretary; and Richard Offenhamer, adviser.

To better understand the German language and customs, Der Kenmore Deutsche Verein, local high school German Club, carried out a varied program of activities during the past year under the advisership of Miss Beulah Harms, German teacher.

At the first meeting, the following officers were elected: Paul Schloerb, President; Walter Hagen, Vice-President; Betty Andersen, Secretary; and William Wall, Treasurer.

The 1936 Olympic Games was the topic of the November meeting at which a reel of motion pictures was shown. In December, a christmas play, "Weihnachtsspiel," was presented with Irma Bentz and Edward Yotter in the leading roles. The following month, the members of the club attended a moving picture, "Liebele" by Arthur Schnitzler, at the Little German Theater in Buffalo.

The main feature of the March and October meetings was German folk dances led by Miss Harms. Robert Drewery was general chairman of the annual club picnic which was held in June. Outdoor games and novel stunts were conducted by the committee in charge.

Appointed this year adviser of the Latin Club, Miss Lillian Barrows continued to carry out the point system by which members earned credits for attendance, promptness, cooperation in activities, and punctual payment of dues. Each member earning four hundred points receives a club pin.

With the membership totaling approximately thirty-five, the club held its business meetings every second Monday of the month after school. The social meetings were conducted every fourth Monday in the evening.

In addition to the many entertaining activities, the organization inaugurated an original method of obtaining finances by auctioning box lunches. A profit of a dollar and twenty cents was realized by the treasury. The highlight program of the year was that in which two of the twelve books of the Aeneid were dramatized by the Virgil class.

Presiding officers of the Latin Club for the past year were: Ruth Lyon and George Scrimshaw; Consuls; Anne Lahrs and Robert Gordon, Praetors; John Byrn, Aedile; Lawrence Whelan and Jeanne Thompson, Quaestors.

English at no time is spoken during the meetings of Le Cercle Francais. This is one of the outstanding features of the club composed of students taking French from Mlle Gendreau.

With its purpose to advance the members' knowledge of the French language, customs, country and people, the regular meetings also include social entertainment.

Opening with a short business session, the meeting continues with discussions, old traditional French games, songs, plays, and crossword puzzles. Some slides on French life were shown at the March meeting through the courtesy of the Buffalo Museum of Science. The club also co-sponsored the showing of the French motion picture, "Sans Famille" with the Sans Souci club.

The officers elected semi-annually for the first semester were: Norma Krause, president; Jean Gallup, vice-president; Frances Murphy, secretary; and Janet Brunton, treasurer. Robert Greene led the group for the last semester, aided by Allyn Kimball as vice-president; John Byrn, secretary; and Jean Gallup, treasurer.

"The Pigeon Post and Stamps in France during the Nineteenth Century" was one of the numerous topics presented at the Sans Souci organization this year, given by Mr. Rollin Flower, Stamp Editor of the "Buffalo Evening News." Other speakers during the year were: Miss Ann Conn who discussed "The Romance of Modern Languages in the University" and Mr. Paul Speyser, French consul at Buffalo.

The club, in collaboration with Le Cercle Francais, offered a talking movie, "Sans Famille" by Hector Malot, in the school auditorium on February twenty-fourth. A pageant, "Fete de Jeanne d'Arc," was dramatized at the May meeting by the club members. A dance in the school cafeteria in June concluded the regular activities of Sans Souci for the year.

The following officers were elected by the club at their first meeting in September: Charles Conn, President; Marguerite Geyer, Vice-President; Sally Pope and Mary Alice Gilchrist, Secretaries; and Mary Ann Berg, program chairman. Mrs. Alise Cowles Van Wie is the adviser of the club.

Creating greater appreciation in the art field by the study of modern painting and sculpturing, the members of the Art Round Table succeeded in furthering the interests of art activities this year under the advisership of Miss Jeannette Underwood and Miss Mary Margaret Cook.

Consisting only of girls in advanced art courses, members spent the month of November in craft work, preparing for the annual Christmas sale. Fifty dollars made from the sale refilled the treasury which was exhausted from the buying of materials for craft work and the purchase of several new books of water-color technique. These books were added to the art reference shelf.

Those serving as officers the first semester were: Sarah Jane Pugsley, president; Patricia Farley vice-president; Betty Crawford, secretary; Mary Ann Berg, treasurer.

Installation of new officers was held at the Town Club at the annual banquet in February placing Marcia Lang as president; Mary Hamilton, vice-president; Janet Smyth, secretary; and Lucille Thompson, treasurer. Miss Lena Spinner was guest of honor and entertained club members with movies of her travels.

Kenmore High School again has school musicians destined for national fame. At the state contest at Elmira, New York on May 1, the trumpet trio of Leo Hattler, Edward Lowcock, and Leigh Merkle received a rating of Highly Superior and a percentage of ninety-five which was the highest awarded.

Walter Hagen, violinist, again placed highest in the violin contest with a ninety-five per cent mark and rating of Highly Superior. Edward Lowcock, trumpet soloist, did not compete, being eligible in the national contest on last year's national rating.

At the sectional contest at Fredonia, the "A" Band tied with Dunkirk High School with a rating of Excellent.

Curtis Steffen, saxophonist and LaVerne Johnson, baritonist, both received a rating of Excellent.

At this contest, the trumpet trio received a rating of Highly Superior enabling them to participate in the state competition. Walter Hagen and Edward Lowcock did not compete but received Highly Superior from last year's contest, being eligible for both state and national contests this year.

With the addition of two flutes, one bassoon, and one alto clarinet, the symphonic band of Kenmore High School has increased its total membership to eighty pieces during the past year, according to Carl W. Hann, head of the music department.

The contest members returned victorious from the National Contest at Cleveland in June, 1936. The entire band then played at the laying of the corner stone of the new municipal building in Kenmore.

In combination with the English department, the band continued its policy of presenting one opera a year by presenting several selections from the opera "Carmen" by Bizet at the February student assembly.

For the past five years the band has steadily developed to its present high rating. During this time it has added to its numerous features, a music library containing some of the most difficult of music.

To meet the increased demand for musical instrument instruction by students of Kenmore High School, two new band units were added to the now progressing music department under the supervision of Carl W. Hann.

The "C" band is the beginners' unit, where those who have no knowledge of a musical instrument are taught the rudiments of playing and instruments are thoroughly explained. When students have sufficiently progressed, they are promoted to the "B" band.

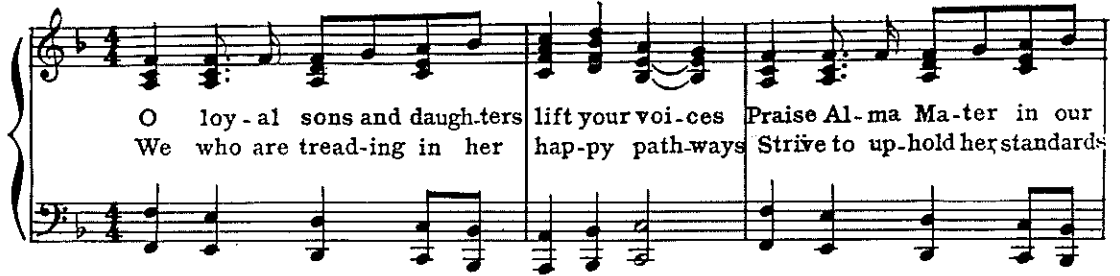

The "B" band, also looked upon as the training unit, is composed of thirty-six members who have advanced from the "C" division. In this band, more difficult pieces are studied. In this process they are advanced to meet the demands of an "A" band member.

WITH a new spirited style of football at Kenmore High School this past fall, the varsity squad staged a "pigskin parade" that presented their opponents with stiff competition throughout their entire eight game schedule.

The season marked the initial appearance of Richard "Dick" Offenhamer of Colgate and Leroy "Lefty" Pitkin of Syracuse, as head coach and line coach respectively. With these new mentors at its helm, Kenmore inaugurated its season by defeating the Depew eleven by the score of 26 to 6.

A strong, stalwart line of Niagara Falls was the determining factor in their effort to turn back the blue and white invader by the score of 31 to 7. Kenmore's lone score of the game came when Dick Davey, halfback, received a flat pass from Popalisky on the red and white's two yard line, and eluded a potential safety man for six points.

For a full sixty minute period, the crowd surrounding the Nichol's field witnessed one of the most thrilling and hard fought games as the big green team managed to eke out a 7 to 0 victory over the local aggregation. With Kenmore firing away on the Nichol's goal line, the game ended.

With the perennial cry of "Beat Tonawanda" ringing in their ears, the blue and white warriors raised their threatening scalping aerial attack by attempting to defeat the lumbermen in their traditional encounter. Tonawanda executed three scoring plays giving them the game 18 to 0.

Batavia rode into town with her hopes pinned on a strong line to break its losing streak at the expense of Kenmore, but the blue and white wave engulfed the visitors and submerged them under a crushing victory of 13 to 0.

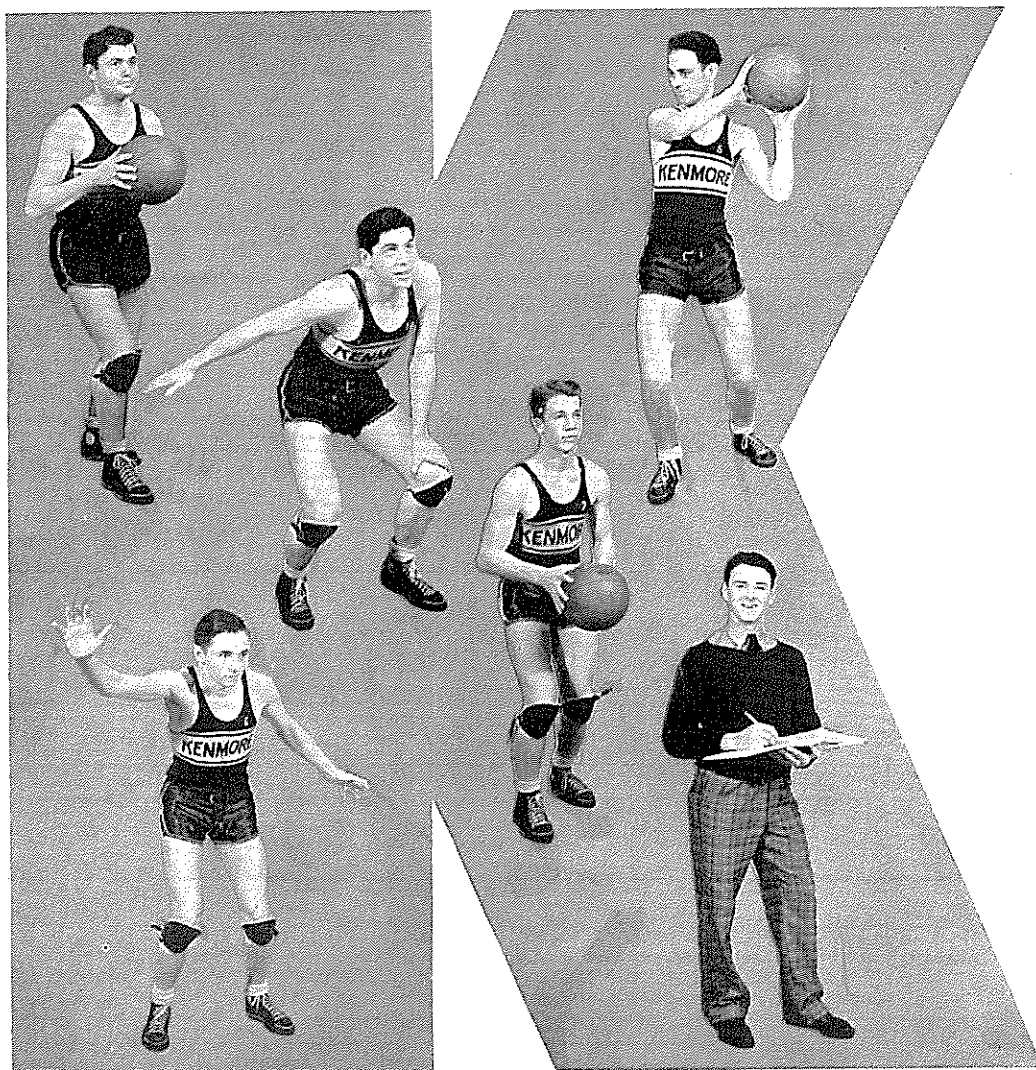

The blue and red lumbermen of North Tonawanda sharpened their axes and cut wide and fancy marks through the Kenmore team. Aided by sudden and decisive blows to the weak points of the local defence, the North Tonawanda team hung up its seventh straight victory of the season by defeating Kenmore 19 to 0.

Taking time out on almost every other play to wipe the mud off the football, the two teams, Trott and Kenmore, played one of their hardest games. Early in the first quarter, Kenmore was caught behind its own line and lost the game 2 to 0.

Those who awarded varsity letters are: Vincent Boles, captain; Clare Schnieder, captain-elect; James Barrett, Ted Bowling; William Buckley; Richard Davey; William Goss; Paul Grumshaw, William Harrison, Ronald Hassler, Ralph Haywood, William and David Hennigar, Richard Hofner, Clayton Kenworthy, John Kibby, Clayton McKay, Clare Popalisky, Alex Ross, Roy Weber, Paul Wisler, Marian Wiktorowski, Thomas Sweeney, and managers, Charles Conn and John Stone.

STARTING the 1936-37 season with but one letter man Clare Popalisky, forward and captain, returning, the blue and white basketball squad was able to build up a team which won four games and lost eleven encounters during the playing season.

With an inexperienced team as a result of the new material with lack of league playing, the basketeers started the campaign by dropping a dull game at Trott by the score of 18 to 9. A week later the home season was inaugurated with a 31 to 13 victory over Batavia. This was followed by defeat at the hands of Nichols 29 to 16. The defeat by the prepsters served as a stimulus, and the blue triumphed at North Tonawanda for the first time in five years by a score of 20 to 17. However, the predictors were right as the team then dropped five contests in a row, and won but two of its last eleven games.

The most exciting contest was the finale at Lackawanna. With Lackawanna leading 22 to 15 and only three minutes remaining in the final period, a foul throw by Davey, two shots under the uprights by Logan, and a pair of free throws by Schneider tied the score 22 all, forcing the game into an overtime period. Popalisky's mid-court shot sent the blues into a two point lead, but Slabak retaliated for the steelmen as the gun barked, necessitating another overtime period with the score tied 24 all. A basket by a Lackawanna forward gave the hosts the lead which was enough for a 26 to 25 victory as Popalisky converted a foul throw. Because of his all-around qualities, Clare Popalisky was awarded the Andreas H. Schultz trophy symbolizing the most valuable player on the team. Popalisky also led the team in scoring with ninety-nine points. Harry Logan was runner-up with sixty-two points. Kenmore totaled 311 points for the campaign against 360 made by its opponents. Alvin Schmohl also shared the limelight with his excellent floor play. The past season saw the return of varsity-faculty contests and the two game series was divided with the faculty winning the first 16 to 15 and the Varsity taking the second 22 to 20.

Awarded varsity K's after three months of steady playing were: captain Clare Popalisky, Alvin Schmohl, Clare Schneider, Harry Logan, Dick Davey, George Zittle, Ronald Hassler, David Bissett, Ted Bowling, Clifton Bainard, Donald Quinn, Chester Swierczynski, and manager William Maloney.

Although in many cases possessing strength in individual swimmers, the 1937 Kenmore team seemed to lack the necessary balanced scoring punch which took the 1936 squad through an .800 season and a second in the Western New York sectionals. This year's edition won three of its ten meets. Prospects for next year seem brighter if the current B team's record of eight wins and no defeats is to be taken into consideration.

Losing the first two meets at Amherst and Tonawanda, the locals then returned home and won two of the three encounters in their own pool. They lost the first with Niagara Falls 42 to 33 even though two records were shattered. Broad-shouldered Dick Kratzer traveled ten lengths of the pool in 2:14.2 to break the 200-yard freestyle record by nearly two and a half seconds. The Niagara medly relay team chalked up a mark of 1:09.8.

With Bob Livengood swimming the century freestyle event in 59.2, the Kenmore mermen won their first victory of the season by taking Amherst, 42 to 33. Lockport, a new rival, was the next victim by the score of 56 to 19. Kenmore garnered a first and second in four events and the diving to make the win decisive.

Luck turned the other way when Kenmore traveled to the twenty-five yard pool of North Tonawanda. After trailing all the way, the Kenmore swimmers saw the loss become conclusive when Livengood disqualified the blue and white's 200-yard relay team by jumping his start. This served as a stimulus the next week for Livengood set a new pool record of 56.3 at Niagara Falls and then returned home for the Tonawanda meet and broke his own record with a 57.8 performance.

Kenmore dropped both these meets along with the 34 to 41 by North Tonawanda. During this meet one of the rare happenings in swimming competition occurred. Although Dick Kusch jumped his start in the 160-yard relay, one of the North Tonawanda men did the same and with Kenmore's relay finishing first, both teams were disqualified.

When Kenmore entered the sectionals on March 6, they accomplished little more than reinstating Dick Kratzer as sectional champion for another year. However, he doubled the length of his swim and won the 200-yard free-style instead of the 100 which he captured last year. Bill Buckley, last year's sectional champion in the diving, was not up to form and placed only fourth in that event and third in the breaststroke. He and Kratzer were the only Kenmore men to qualify.

The sectionals in North Tonawanda's pool found the local team hindered. In a 25 yard pool such as those of both Tonawandas, the Kenmore swimmer finds himself instinctively ready to make his turn five yards before he gets to the edge of the pool.

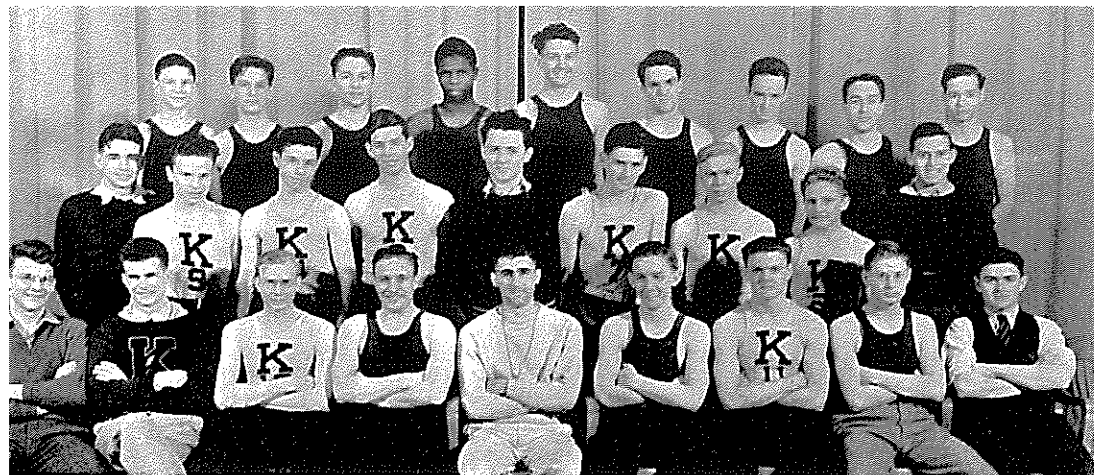

Three Kenmore swimmers placed in the annual A.A.U. meet in the Buffalo Consistory pool in March. Bob Livengood broke the 100 yard freestyle event record with a 59.2 performance. Dick Kratzer was beaten for the first time in his three years of competitive swimming by Hutchinson High School freestyle artist, Sam McKenzie, in the 220-yard race.

Varsity letters went to: Richard Kratzer and William Buckley, co-captains; Donald Livengood, Harvey Maxfield, Charles Pastor, Harry Richards, Howard Round, LeMoine Wark, and George Cochern, manager.

As March 1936 rolled around and brought the beginning of the track season, "Andy" Schultz was forced to resign his coaching position because of illness.

Into his shoes stepped young "Wes" Snyder who in 1927 and 1928 played football and basketball for Kenmore. The year Earl Ruckman captained the basketball squad, "Wes" led the second team. The next year he moved up to the position of varsity captain. Although he didn't see service on the track team, the physical education course which he took at Michigan State College fitted him for the coaching position.

Kenmore took the opener, defeating Lockport and Batavia on Batavia's field by an impressive margin, Batavia finishing second.

They then set off to an invitation meet at Lockport and emerged seventh of the thirteen teams entered from Western New York. East Aurora, who had a top-notch team this year, placed first with Dunkirk in second position.

Probably the most thrilling meet of the season was the one with Nichols on the Colvin-and-Amherst field. Everything was hinged on the last relay. Nichols had taken seven events to Kenmore's four, but Kenmore's accumulated points kept her in the lead by a slight margin. By the time that last event was called, the meet could swing to one team or the other. Duncan set off and chalked up a short lead which Dixon and Hensel held, and by the time anchor-man Kibby hit the tape, Kenmore had taken the relay and won the meet—64 to 58.

On May 29 the local cinder path was the scene of the sectionals. Kenmore followed East Aurora to second place out of eight schools, Kenmore getting $27\frac{1}{2}$ points to East Aurora's $32\frac{3}{4}$.

Kenmore placed fourth of twenty schools in the zone meet on June 5 of all Western New York teams. Bob Eldridge won the high jump; John Kibby took second in the 440-yard event; Duncan finished third in the 100-yard dash; and the relay team of Duncan, Dixon, Kibby and Cochern placed third. Jack Hensel, Bob Wheelock, Paul Wisler and Alvin "Heinie" Schmohl entered but failed to place.

East Aurora who wedged Kenmore out of first place in the sectionals won the zone meet with 20 points. Dunkirk followed with $18\frac{3}{4}$, Hamburg with $11\frac{3}{4}$, and Kenmore with $9\frac{3}{4}$.

In the sectional and zone meets the blue and white men were aided by the fact that they were on their own field. The Kenmore track has some of the best facilities in Western New York.

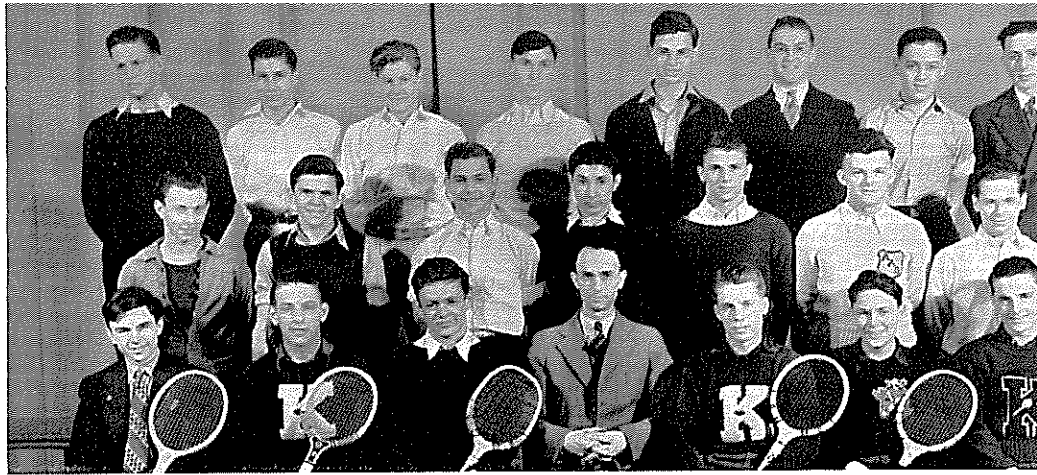

Beginning with the 1937 season, there will be no more track sectionals. Emphasis will be placed instead on the zone meet and it will be unnecessary for individuals to qualify in order to enter. It is believed that the change should encourage smaller schools who have been so disheartened by the more experienced teams that they have not developed track at all. The quarter, half, and mile will be started in a chute to avoid congestion at the turn.

Many of the 1936 squad returned for the 1937 season. Nick Dragech, James Duncan, Bob Wheelock, and Bob Eldridge were the only losses. John Kibby, George Cochern, Paul Wisler, Jack Hensel, Chester Swierczynski, William Buckley, Leonard Spencer and others were all eligible to return.

Varsity letters were awarded to the following nine men: John Kibby, captain; George Cochern; Nick Dragech; James Duncan; Robert Eldridge; John Hensel; Alvin Schmohl; Paul Wisler; Robert Wheelock; and Robert Weller, manager.

Although their record was not so impressive as the undefeated varsity of 1935, the tennis team under coach George Wessell closed the 1936 season with six victories and four defeats, a record that compares very favorably with those of the past four seasons.

The team this year did produce two outstanding singles players for Western New York, Robert Griffin and Harry Lazalle. Griffin ended the playing season undefeated in competition.

Victories were registered during the season over Tonawanda, Nichols, Batavia, and Canisius High School. The U. of B. frosh, Niagara Falls, and Canisius High School were the only teams to defeat Kenmore.

In the sectionals at Kenmore, Harry Lazalle lost to George Rushton of Niagara Falls, while Richard Hofner and Harry Weed placed in the doubles by defeating the Eden team. At the zone meet, Hofner and Weed lost to Niagara Falls in an extended match.

Letters were awarded to Harry Lazalle, Robert Griffin, Clifton Bainard, Richard Hofner, Harry Weed, Donald Colby, and manager Chester Thoman.

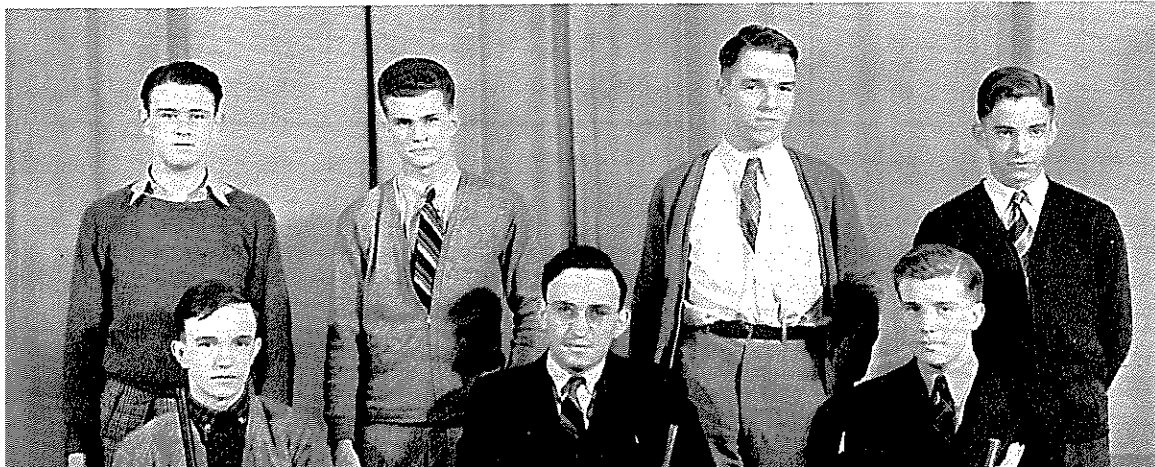

Because the blue and white golfers had no opportunity to practise, the 1936 fall team showed a record of six defeats against no victories. Again the team was entered in the Suburban Scholastic League composed of class A schools in Western New York.

At the beginning of the season, coach Miller found no lettermen returning, but soon discovered several boys who showed possibilities. Hope is high for next year as four men of this year's squad expect to return.

Composing this year's team were: James Duncan, George Scrimshaw, Arthur Karnuth, Albert Chilcott, Samuel Easterbrook, and William Mahlman.

Harriet Hallenbeck's team won the senior division championship in the girls' basketball competition this year, having captured the class championship in their junior and sophomore years also. The winners in the 1936-37 competition for the juniors and sophomores were Jeanne Thompson's and Joan Stall's teams.

At the annual winter play-day at East Aurora eight schools from surrounding towns were represented, and Hallenbeck's team defeated Hamburg. Mary Kutzbach's six also came out victorious over Lancaster.

At the Girls' Letter Club assembly, '37 numerals went to the champion teams in each of the three classes: Stall, sophomore champs; Thompson, junior champs; Hallenbeck, senior champs. White "K's" on blue backgrounds went to twenty-five seniors, while letters were also awarded to sixteen juniors who were outstanding players in their class. Betty Smith, sports manager, was presented with a silver bracelet, while Miss Kauffman also received a gift. Sally Pope of the Inter-Sorority Council presented a cup to Harriet Hallenbeck, captain of the champion team.

Not to be outdone by the boys' varied athletic program, Kenmore girls are offered participation in seven sports. After the autumn tennis competition Margaret Merrick was awarded a tennis "K" as champion in the senior division; and Frances Murphy, junior, and Helen Bone, sophomore, received tennis letters for first place in their class tournaments.

For the third time Jeanne Thompson earned individual honors in the swimming meet. The spring schedule includes baseball, volleyball, lacrosse, and archery. Those awarded archery "K's" are: Betty Lind, high scorer, followed by Dorothy Lewis, Dorothy Pendergast, Beverly June, Trudy Elliott, and Aileen Noxsel.

The following members of the Girls' Letter Club, who had received "K's" for participation in three different sports were presented special pins: June Honeywell, Peggy Geyer, Mary Swedish, Betty Smith, and Betty Lind.

The biggest event of the year was the annual spring play-day when the girls from 12 schools played at tennis, archery, volley ball, badminton, soft-ball, and had both a swimming and track meet.

As the pigskin goes flying down the field on the opening kick-off or the basketball cuts the air after the tip-off, the Kenmore cheerleading squad leads its variety of cheers and yells for the blue and white supporters.

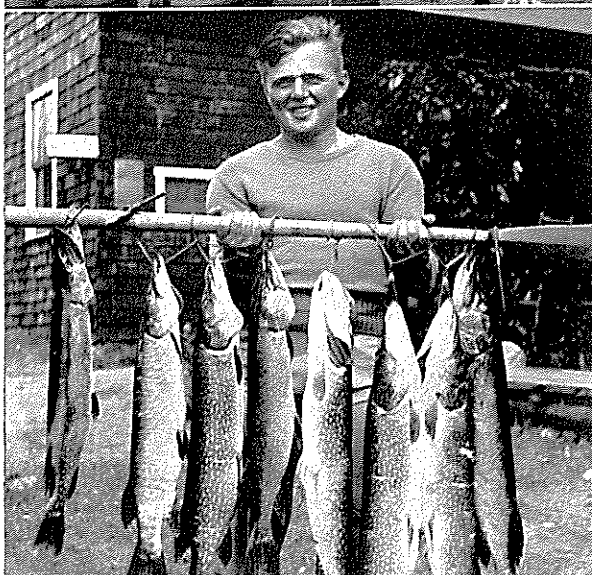

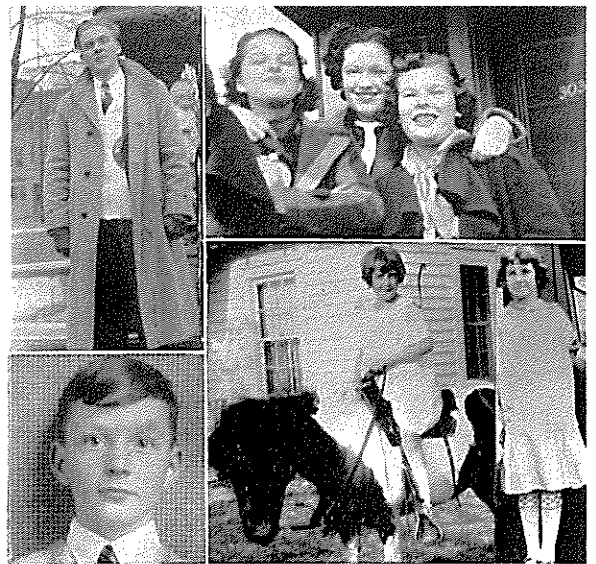

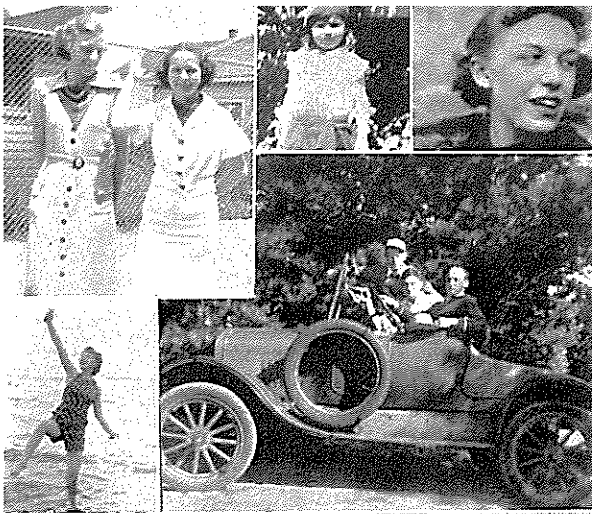

This is only one of the duties that the members of the squad have to perform throughout the year. Cooperating with the Student Council last October, the cheerleaders presented one of the most novel period-long pep assemblies ever staged for the Tonawanda football game.

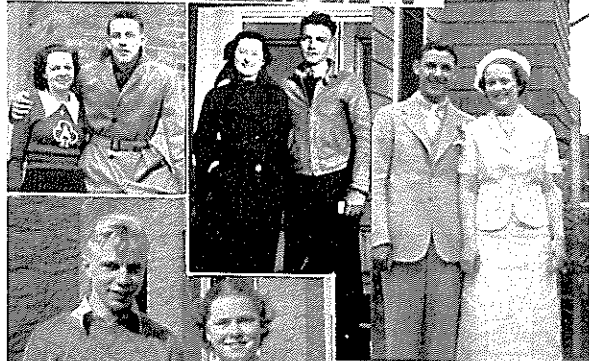

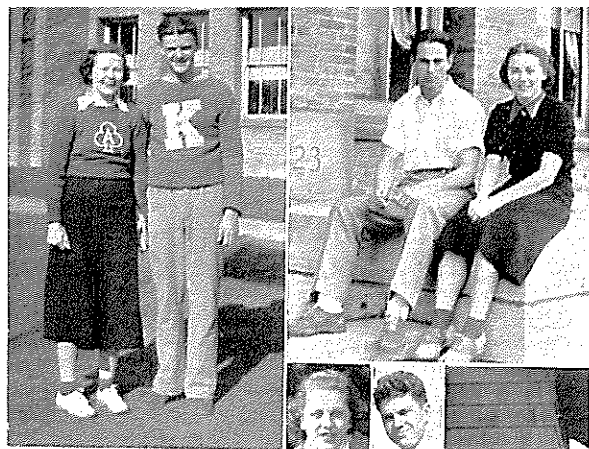

Other assemblies and rallies were held during the football and basketball seasons, and the year was concluded with a pep assembly for the spring sport teams, tennis, track, and golf.

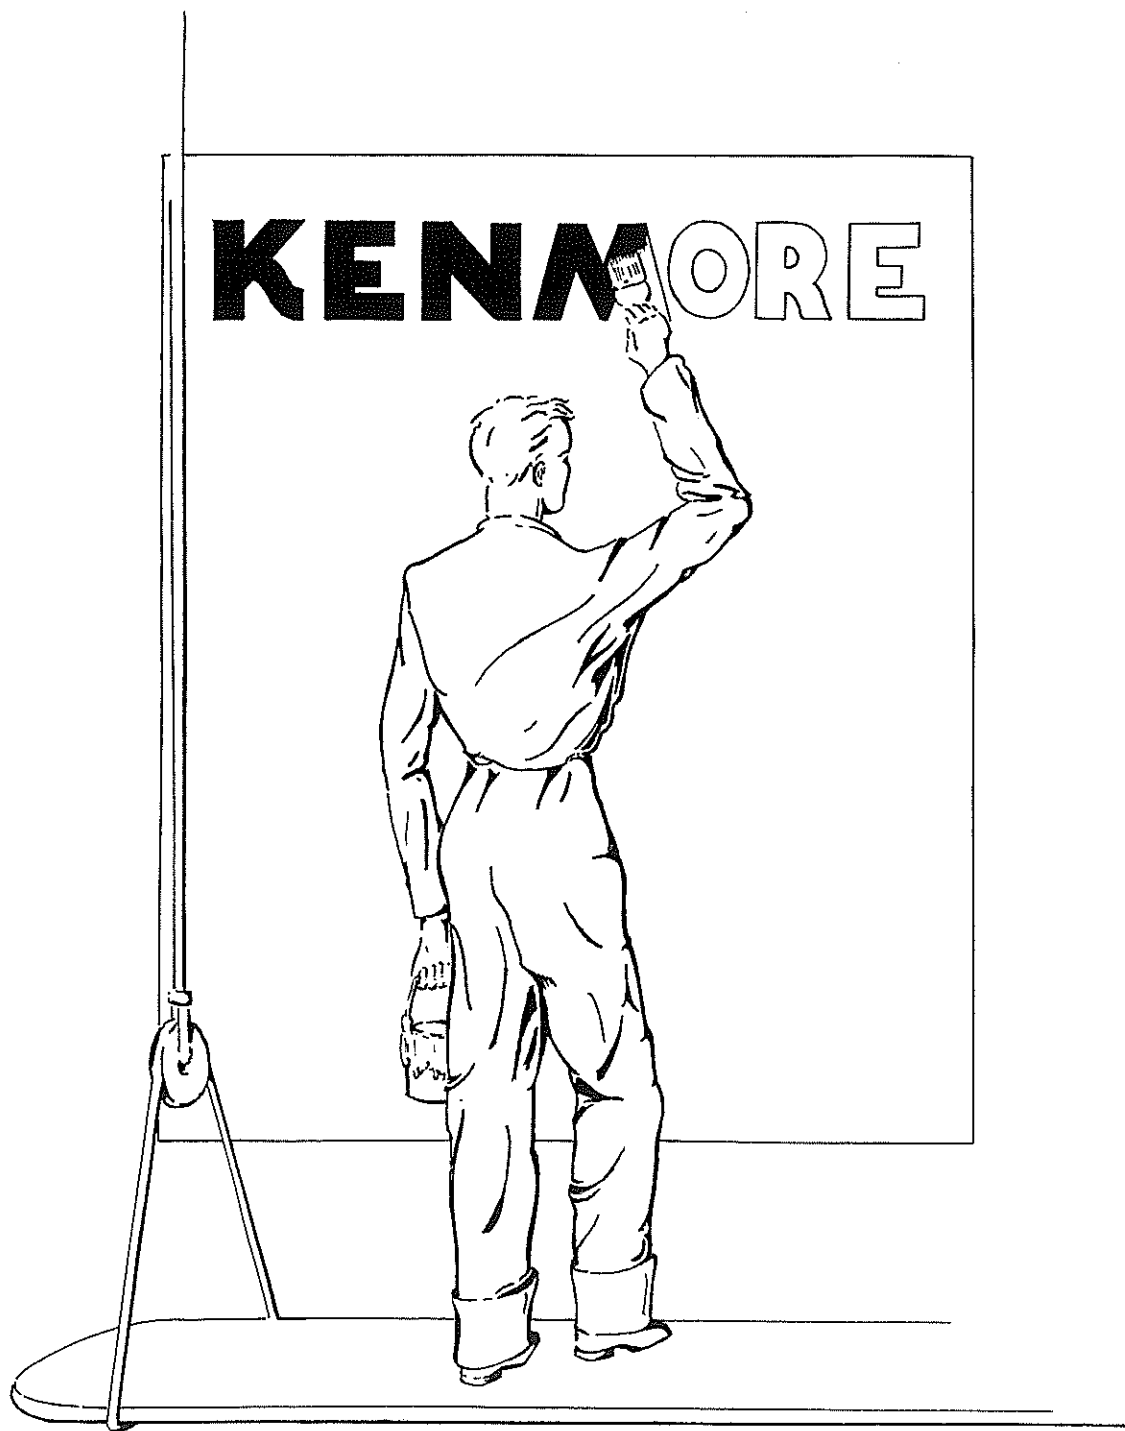

At the end of the basketball season, the members of the cheerleading staff received the following awards: June Honeywell, a three-year service charm; Clifford MacBay, Sally Davies, June McIntosh, and Sally Pope, two-year service "K's;" Dorigen Ditsch, Henry Farley, Ruth Cushing, and Mary Hamilton, one year service "K's."

DID YOU KNOW THAT!

Twelve of the forty-six teachers in Kenmore Senior High School have master degrees.

The proposed new senior high school will have special facilities for dramatics, music, and industrial arts shop practice, in addition to numerous other improvements.

Kenmore High School was chosen one of the two schools in New York State to have its entire educational program studied in detail by the New York State Educational Department.

The Kenmore High School library is one of the finest equipped and efficiently managed libraries, besides having more magazines than any other high school library, in the state.

Several hundred new homes are expected to be built in the Kenmore School District in the next two years.

"TOWARD MORE PICTURESQUE SPEECH"

"How Else Would You Say It?"

Spring fever is a Kenmore class on Friday afternoon
The hot metal was as forged as a yellow slip Without teachers
Kenmore would be a boiler minus a safety valve.

As infallible as a Melvin Berg weather forecast As urban as Bob Armstrong As indispensable as "Pick-Ups."
An envied as the band on the day for Fredonia.

How often do you hear applause equal to that of a successful first nighter or a Kenmore assembly when the period isn't yet over?

As peaceful as the halls between classes As dangerous as going out the side doors at noon while the rest of the school is pouring in The park bench was as occupied as the Kenitorial staff.
