FREEDOM OF RELIGION

One of democracy's strongest safeguards for the future is education. If democracy is to survive the onrushing tide of the "isms", the desire for its preservation must be in the minds of all citizens — both those of today and tomorrow. Thus it is the aim of this book to show how the school plays a part through its administration, school life, classes, organizations, and athletics to further democratic principles and to let freedom ring.

FREE EDUCATION

It is the task of the Board of Education to control efficiently and democratically the policies which guide the school. The administrators grant freedom, but not laxity, to the various activities in which the faculty and pupils participate.

Left to right: Frank C. Densberger, superintendent of schools; Miss Isabelle Ferris, treasurer; Allen B. Rae, trustee; Kenneth O. Irvin, district clerk, business manager; Lloyd E. Greer, president; Fred C. Sprickman, vice-president; Mildred L. Clements, trustee; Elmer L. Sleeper, trustee.

Democratically elected by the townspeople, the Board of Education formulates basic policies for Kenmore High School. The administrators of the school carry out such policies, receiving co-operation in the form of suggestions and ideas from parents, teachers, and students.

FACULTY

Besides teaching and guiding the students, the faculty of Kenmore High School participates in many outside activities as well.

At faculty meetings questions of routine matters are discussed, in addition to separate departmental meetings for the purpose of discussing new methods of teaching.

Adding to its former successes, the faculty presented its annual play, "Pride and Prejudice," proceeds of which went to the P. T. A.

FACULTY PLAY

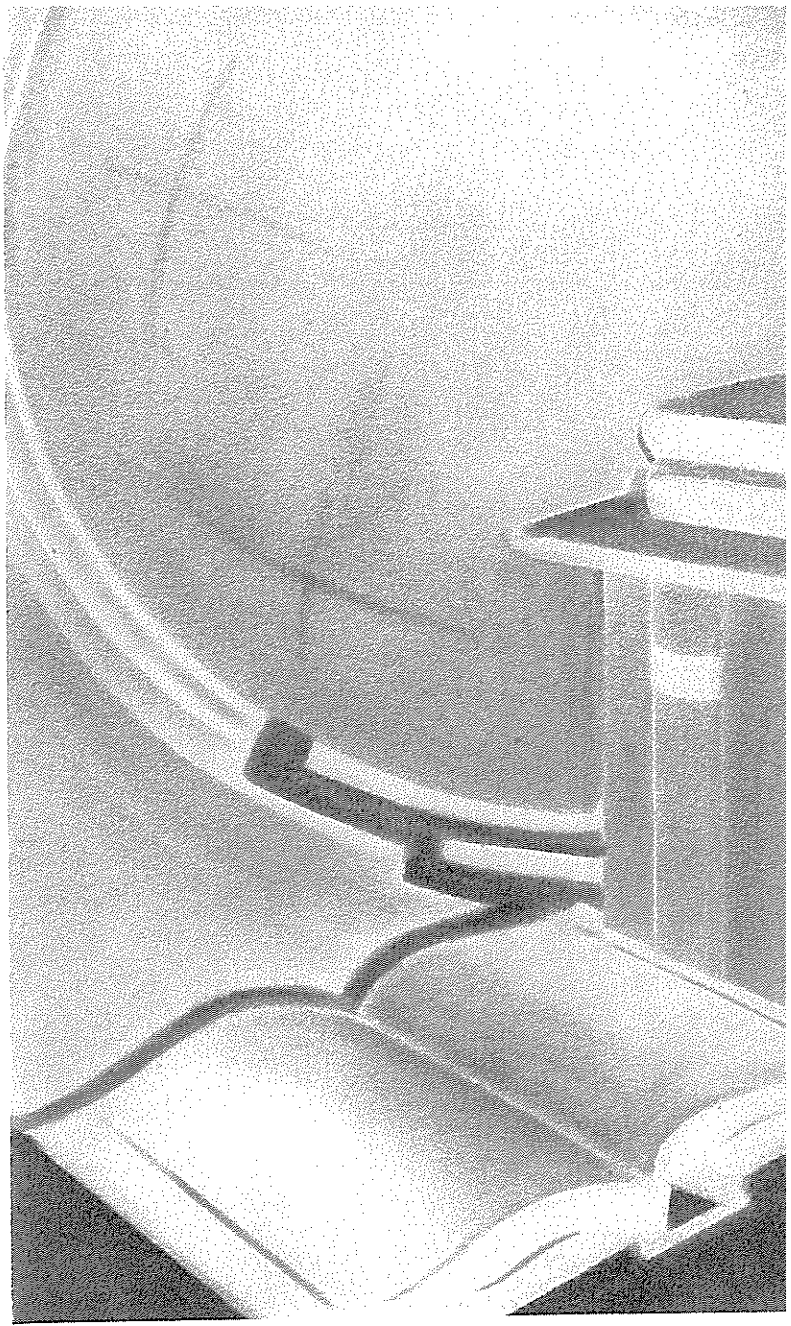

First row: Covelli, Greutker, Braunton, Conn, Vosburgh, Stewart, Witzig, Carfer, Sharpe, Barrett, Arnold, Sutherland, Moore.

FACULTY PLAY

This year the faculty presented Jane Austen's "Pride and Prejudice" as its annual play on March 9 and 10 for the benefit of the Parent-Teachers Association. The dramatization was the one by Helen Jerome that was a success on Broadway a few years ago.

In order to present a background of the empire period of England in which the story was laid, costumes and scenery were rented. Another feature of the play was the fact that twenty-four teachers took part. Financially as well as artistically the play was a success, and approximately four hundred dollars was made.

Although it involved a great deal of work, the teachers enjoyed the friendly relaxation of the faculty play, and the students enjoyed the finished product.

CLASSES

POEM

Maker of heaven and earth,
Grant us the strength to endure,
The power to remain pure,
The desire, the will to cure,
To resist temptation's lure.
Help us to prove our worth.

The world we enter is a complex, moving thing,
Urging, spurring, ever challenging us to wing
Our flight upward beyond the close confining bonds
Of man's achievements. Youth surges forward and responds
To the eternal call of adventure. Contest
Brings eager hearts, youthful aspirations to breast
The tide of life. Who will e'er heed or note or care,
While nations seethe with war and shrill trumpets blare
Whether inexperienced youth will find its place
Among the working citizens of the race?
How can we attain security or peace
When men forsake written promises and cease
To exercise courtesy? Where has virtue fled?
Where patience? Duty? Why rampant vice in their stead?

We have left childhood joys behind.
With eager, upturned faces we seek
The light. Open our eyes, closed, blind
That we may go out, help the weak.

We would as youth before
Conquer life's golden store.
No hard task difficult enough,
No uncharted seas too rough.
Grant us the desire to know,
Humble, to live and grow.

Jean Massucci
Class Poet

HISTORY

When we receive, at last, our diplomas and file slowly from our brightly-lighted auditorium we shall realize with mixed pangs of joy and remorse that we are writing the final words in one more chapter of that thrilling book, Life. It is only right that we should review these pages, pages crammed with both joys and sorrows, fully recognizing that they can never be relived.

When we entered senior high school as sophomores, we were removed from the pinnacle we enjoyed in junior high, and we were regarded by the seniors as mere neophytes. Undaunted, we went our way, patiently awaiting the day when we, too, would be seniors and would enjoy full privileges.

Nevertheless, in this status, we were allowed for the first time in the school's history to have regular class officers. Selected were Ward Moore, president; Henry Farley, vice-president; Robert Spitzer, secretary; Theodore Wilcox, treasurer; and Richard Down, representative on the Student Council.

Helping to prepare us for advancement toward the goal, which would be ours in two years, was Mr. George Barna, chosen by the class as its adviser. With him as our guide and tutor, we cavorted through a merry comedy called "Hospital Hectics." Who will forget Bob Attmore's antics as he perplexed us with his complicated talk about the elusive creature, the "foith-boinder?" After this, we staged a theater party, the proceeds going to our picnic at Ellicott Creek Park in June. We successfully spent the proceeds on food, and no one could despair of its loss, remembering the fun we had with our fellow students and amiable adviser.

After a joyous summer, we resumed our duties, one step nearer to the coveted position enjoyed by the seniors. Leading the class this year were David Carter, president; Richard Down vice-president; Robert Spitzer, secretary; Jack Busch, treasurer; and Joan Craig, representative. To help us, we chose our youthful football coach, Mr. Richard Offenhamer, who aided us in staging our second assembly. This time we appeared as passengers aboard a ship, captained by Bud Morrison. Revealed as composer was Warren Weller whose romantic song, "Memories in My Heart," made its debut at this assembly.

Reigning amidst colorful decorations at the Junior Prom were Queen Carol Gilchrist and King Jack Busch, fully proclaimed as our rightful rulers with an impressive coronation ceremony. Our own gymnasium was converted into a court room and king and queen with their attendants were led to the throne. There they were officially crowned by last year's queen, Rhoda Anne Duddleston, and king, Bill Dippert.

The joy we had known was tragically overshadowed by the sudden passing of Walter Stall, who, though gone, will live in the memories of students and teachers alike.

A climax of this chapter was reached as we triumphantly reentered Kenmore's halls as full-fledged seniors. For the post of Student Council president, the student body chose Ward Moore, whose former experience proved him well-fitted for this important office. For class president this year we elected Robert Maier, assisted by David Carter vice-president; Allyn Kimball, secretary; Julius Yakapovich, treasurer; and Carol Gilchrist, representative.

Just before Thanksgiving with our cooperative adviser, Mr. C. Sherwood Miller, we feverishly toiled toward making the traditional carnival the best ever. In our opinion, we succeeded. Shirley Salting was popularly elected to fill the place of queen for that night.

Many activities followed, including the putting out of the yearbook, our own "Kenitorial," a task assigned to Marion Arnoldi and Robert Miller, editors, Bert Schillo and John Harris, business managers, and a large staff of seniors, juniors and sophomores under the watchful eye of Mr. Clarence Vosburgh. This yearbook will be cherished particularly, since it is paramountly ours as seniors.

To complete our last year as students of our beloved Alma Mater, some of those dramatically inclined, performed in the senior play, directed by Miss Eve Strong.

The last words of this memorable and eventful chapter were written by fate's hand when the class day banquet and dance were class history.

And now, our diplomas firmly clutched in hand, we close this part of our life with the hope that in some way we have left a favorable imprint for others to follow and to better.

The next chapter of the book, Life, will separate this class; but, in future years, we each shall turn back the hands of time and relive in pleasant memory the days spent in association with the finest group of students and teachers we shall ever know.

WILL

We the, class of 1939, being about to depart from the corridors of Alma Mater (by the grace of heaven and the Board of Regents) and being of sound mind and body, do give and bequeath our varied possessions in the following manner:

As a warning to some ambitious member of the junior class, Ward Moore leaves a copy of his autobiography entitled "Trials and Tribulations Of A Student Council President" or "Why I Should Like To Be A Hermit."

To some would-be brain child, Doug Cook and Bob Attmore give their collection of ten syllable words and their vast store of miscellaneous knowledge.

Jeanne Bjork leaves to Andrea Raines "How To Be A Glamour Girl in Ten Easy Lessons (Or Six Hard Ones)."

Oscar Schmitt leaves to a member of next year's basketball team his lucky rabbit's foot, but his grin goes to Pepsodent (with Irium!).

For no apparent reason, Sax Graham, Clark Murray, and Warren Anderson leave a box of animal crackers to Pudgy Reimann.

Grace Kramer and Olive Smith bequeath to that long-suffering member of our pedagogical staff, Mr. George Barna, a study hall free from giggling, note writing, and gum chewing.

Jimmy Barrett leaves a lock of his bee-utiful red hair to any junior (female) who desires it. Applicants should enclose ten cents to cover cost of handling and mailing.

To Jean McKenneth, Helen Bone gives one pair of worn-out dancing slippers and a life insurance policy for use in doing the shag on a crowded floor.

Fred Seiple and Jack Feinen leave their numerous female correspondents to "Tor" Thomas or any other aspirant to the title of champion note writer.

To anyone who wants it, Bob Burr bequeaths his ability to dance a mean highland fling, which, accompanied by Georgine Dean's imitation of two Irishmen on a Saturday night, ought to be something sensational.

Janet Brunton leaves to Leah Kelley her reputation as the best dressed girl.

Eddie Cochern leaves to Dick Newell his expert judgment in purchasing used cars, gleaned from experience, as Eddie's last venture in this field broke down four times in three days.

Marshall Levea donates to Winnie Powers a system for passing History C: study for two hours every night, read four books a week for extra credit, write out all homework assignments, recite important facts ten times each before retiring, and, as a final precaution (This is important!) bring the teacher a big red apple the day before she gives a test.

The energy girls, Jean Massucci, Connie Clum, and Dorie Martin leave the secret of their vim and vigor — it's Wheaties!!!

To anyone who can qualify, Meg Thomas leaves her title of "the answer to a young man's prayer" with this bit of advice: "It's not the men in your life, but the life in your men, that is important."

We also give and bequeath to the student body in general these numerous sundry articles: Peggy Twing's supply of clever quips, Johnny Harris's super salesmanship as demonstrated during the days of "The Kenitorial" campaign, Libby Mahlman's talent for making a success of anything and everything, and the contents of our study hall desk, which, at the last inventory consisted of one pencil stub, one essay labeled "The Life and Loves of Ferdinand, the Bull," three notes addressed to "Slug," and one wad of chewing gum (slightly used.)

Furthermore, we are not responsible for riots, lawsuits for libel, or other events that may occur as a result of this distribution of our property. In witness whereof, I have affixed my name this day of June, year of nineteen hundred and thirty-nine.

PROPHECY

It was the year 1950. Times had changed. Screaming newspaper headlines told us to our amazement that Kenmore had been destroyed by a recent explosion in Bud Morrison's publishing house. It had happened when his wife, Mary Lou Johnson, dropped a large bottle of special printer's ink which she was bringing to him. However, as it contained nitroglycerine instead, she blew up some of the tourists who had been visiting the establishment. Among these were Jack Russell, Helen Connelly, Chet Glor, and Betsy Ross. Later we read in Ed Smith's column in the "Daily Clarion," published by Bill Blaiklock, that fortunately all they lost was their heads. The article also stated that last year a similar accident had occurred when photographer Hugh Storer went into his garage one night and lighted a match to see if he had put away his flashlight powder. He had not.

Hearing that reconstruction was already under way, we returned to the city. On the way in we stopped at a roadside inn run by Kevin Foley who was trying to save enough money to wed Jeanne Greig but found it hard because Bal Smith, his hungry partner, ate up all the profits. While there we had hamburgers, and we also tried one of the newly patented "Herzbergers," a novel sandwich which Bob had invented. Pretty soon Al White and Babs Huntington wandered in from a round of golf and sat with us to watch Junior Rycroft, Bettie Brenner, Jack Wilson, and Helen Denison cut a few rugs to Elliott McGinnies' latest composition, "Deep Green."

Stepping outside, we were soon on our way again in a bus driven by the tiniest operator in the business, Bob Turner. In the bus were several other old schoolmates who were also coming back for the reconstruction. First, there were Joan Stall and Anne Palinchak who had been traveling with Tauffner and Spencer Bros. Circus.

Then, from the rear of the vehicle came a nasal greeting which turned out to be Chuck "Oui-Oui" Otto who had been in France during the last year interpreting for the American poet, Betty Boyer. Jim Dearing and Harry Waldron were seen busily discussing their plans for a rocket ship in which they were going to Mars to see if they could get dates for the '59 alumni dance.

As we approached the city, we found everything in complete ruin except Kenmore High School which stood out defiantly with a group of dismayed students looking on. Already along the sides of the highway we could see ditch diggers clearing away debris. We saw foreman Tom Kaye showing workers Clark Hall, Roland Foley, Robert Greene and Gordy Greer the proper way to lean on a shovel. John Mutchler was off in a field surveying some real estate which Ken Hufstater was going to buy for his new super ice cream market. At the school we found Mary Morgan, Anna Peffer, Eleanor Almeter, Pat Chapple, and Doris Berry forming a committee to greet President Ken Lincoln who was going to oversee personally the rebuilding program.

Next we decided to walk around the city and see what else was being done. The first persons we met were Ted Kessler and Al Beiter who were trying to interest Mayor Ted Tarbell in a set of three convertible fire engines which fire chief Oakley Baskin had lost in the catastrophe. On the site of the village hall, which had been erected in 1936, "Mar" Woller, Betty Christy, and Betty Wood were putting the finishing touches on their new "Ye Olde Coffee Shoppe". Nancy Hutchinson had set up a little theatre guild to supply competition with Mary Hamilton's puppet show. We indeed became quite proud of our former class-mates who were showing such a fine cooperative spirit in being the pioneers of a new, better Kenmore.

By this time darkness had fallen

Since the explosion there had been no electricity available. Wires had been torn down. The only light was from some temporary gas lamp lights. We were surprised when we saw Dave Drewery, Chuck Rellinger, and John Paulson in the role of local lamplighters! Chris Lindeman and Ed Alling were diligently repairing the old telephone system. Over on Military Road we noticed the reservoir being built for the water works. This was supervised by Jim Kirkwood and Tom Schiesel. They seemed to be having some trouble keeping Jim McCullough, Adele McKenneth, Dan O'Donnell, and Irma Benz from holding picnics on the premises and throwing their banana peels in the water. Seeing a huge bonfire on the other side of town, we investigated, only to find that it was Jeanne Monrian and Ed Recke leading a political rally. After the campaign was over, Peg Morrison, now wife of Murray Cochrane, pretzel manufacturer, passed the hat. This was followed by community singing under the direction of Dick Biggie. Near us we heard the voices of Elizabeth Wilmoth, Inez Cimador and Shirley Saling. Later in the evening entertainment was supplied by the famous star of stage and screen, Roy "Handsome" Herrmann, and an exhibition ping pong match between Warren Unholz, world champ, and the local flash, Jack Hickey. About eleven-thirty we went to register at the high school which was being used as a temporary hotel. As we went by room 201, it looked just like old times to see Lindley Barrett Carmelo Sabatino, William Ayler, and John Bonning sound asleep at their desks.

In the morning we were awakened by Mr. Lung who was yelling at Don Porter and Jack McCormick, a couple of physical directors, who were running in the hall. We dressed and strolled down to the cafeteria which was now under the efficient care of dieticians Ruth Witham and Betty Dohn. We sat down at a table with athletes Dave Dietterich, Jim Grist, and Ted Hollands who had popularized miniature tiddley-winks in such resorts as Phyllis Koehnlein's "Place de Swanke" and Betty Mason's "Mounty Cargo" up in Canada. No sooner had we started eating when a newsboy, Wayne Cook, brought our morning paper to us. Being still kids at heart, we naturally turned first to the funny page where we eagerly read "The Adventures of Don Livengood and Dot Jones in Toyland" by Curtis Clinton. When we finished, we immediately left the school.

Just as we stepped out of the building and were about to cross the street, we were almost hit by Don Heimiller and Fred Watkins who came shooting around the corner on their bicycles in training for their next six-day race. However, we didn't report them to Officer David John on the corner but made our way across the street and through a crowd listening to a soap-box orator by the name of Chauncey Mac Bay.

Proceeding further, we became interested in a new plan for Kenmore's streets which Dick Sweeney and Ray Johnson were designing. We learned that the major change made had been to run Delaware south to north instead of north to south as it had been previously. In charge of laying the tar lines in the middle of each street were Hans Hitzemann and Ken Bell, assisted by Warren Enders, Howard Fisher, Earl Fix and Jim Haist, all graduates of M. I. T. (Massachusetts Institute of Tar-laying).

As day advanced, the hot noon sun drove us into a new department store going up on the corner of Kenmore Avenue and Delaware. Walter Christie, the owner, greeted us at the door and asked us if we cared to see his latest enterprise. We followed him through the building, and he pointed out to us that it had all the modern conveniences: air conditioning by David Brown, lighting by Willard Donlay, heating by Charles Demchik, interior decorating by Marcia Lang, designing by Dale Eaton and Ruth Cushing, plumbing by Betty Ebling, and a restaurant by the famed Gustav Gundersen of Sweden. Continuing, he showed us the different departments on the first floor. In the candy section were Aileen Cudlipp, Elma Parker, and Eleanor Rae. Behind the perfume counter we saw Helen Tyng, Clara Wiktorowska, and Rita Auer selling the merchandise of Robert Becker and Warren Chambers, French importers. Next to Bob Strasser's camera display was the toy department where Doris Hoffman, Helen Meade, Maude Rogers, and Alice Musty were trying to keep Elizabeth Mahlmann, Virginia Boston, and Katherine Spoor from playing with the dolls while floorwalkers Gene Choppe, Tom Cocker, and Ed Dykstra had difficulty in keeping Robert Foulis and Ralph Cramton from the tin soldiers.

We were quite impressed by six handsomely-uniformed elevator girls who reminded us strangely of Betty DeVine, Katherin House, Charlotte Frueh, Lucille Kuhn, Dorothy Richmeyer, and Charlotte Birdsall. However, we had become quite lunch-hungry and from then on ignored all but the store's restaurant. Upon entering, we found that it was occupied by meeting of the ladies club of Kenmore, but that didn't hinder us. We entered during a speech by the president, Dorothy Bomer. Among those sleeping were salesladies Mary Alice Culbertson and Beth Finch; seamstresses Helen Close, Dorothea Marsh, and Ruth Ross who had kept guests in stitches all the afternoon; librarians Rosemary Yalsic, Betty Wagner, Agnes Brenon, and Emily Larson; and housewives Inger Andersen, Helen Swift, and Marilyn Streng who had to hurry home to their respective hubbies, Phil Scanlon, Dick Malco, and Bert Schillo. As the program proceeded, we finished our lunch, and since other speeches by Nurse Josephine Biaglogreck, Dr. Dorigen Ditsch, and Prof. Walter Irvine did not interest us, we returned to the streets once more.

We went again to the ruined section of the community to see if we could assist in any way. Buildings were going up everywhere. Donald Streeter's gas station was almost restored, the grocery store of Anne Loomis and Ruth Mallon was already erected, and John Popp's drug store was well on the way to recovery. Nearby, June Schlagter's soda fountain was doing an ever-increasing business during the torrid afternoon. Business women Phyllis Stanton and Alice Carver were opening a real estate office, and Geraldine Staley, Helen Doherty, and Martha Francisco were in Irene Lehman's china shop helping to pick up the broken glass. Buildings were rapidly going up, and order was evolving out of chaos. We were quick to perceive, however, that our unskilled efforts would be one of a hindrance than a help.

With the reconstruction so well on the way we retired to the high school to collect our baggage and be off once more. As we passed the front office, Miss Catherine Butan, now in Mrs. Hoadley's place, called us in and told us that Mr. Miller, senior class adviser, had asked her to see if "The Kenitorial" prophecy was finished yet. Being in a hurry, we scribbled a note to him: "But, Uncle Sher, we finished that twenty years ago,"—and signed our names,

Robert Attmore and Warren Weller,

Class Prophets.

JUNIOR OFFICERS

For the first time in the history of Kenmore High School, the junior class labored vigorously enough to enable each class member to attend the junior prom free of charge. Richard Newell and Jacqueline Meehan reigned as 1939's king and queen amid a musical setting.

A spring picnic was also provided without charge as a result of the cooperation of class officers and Adviser George Barna, who worked with this group for the second successive year.

In presenting the junior show, "Swing For The Elders," which exhibited a bagpipe player, instrumentalists, a double-voiced vocalist, a six piece orchestra and other entertainers, the group became the only class with a musical assembly during the year. The plot centered about an elderly man's dislike for swing music and the resulting consequences when his son brought home a group of college entertainers.

Class officers were Richard Newell, president; Richard Yount, vice president; Allen Aitken, secretary; Robert Woodhouse, treasurer; and Kay Martin, representative to the Student Council.

Swish - - - !! Once more a sophomore class has weathered the ups and downs of a school year. With Mr. Frederick Grefe as adviser the class soon established itself in school life. The officers were elected later than usual this year, but without further delay the class launched its money-making campaign, in the form of a theater party.

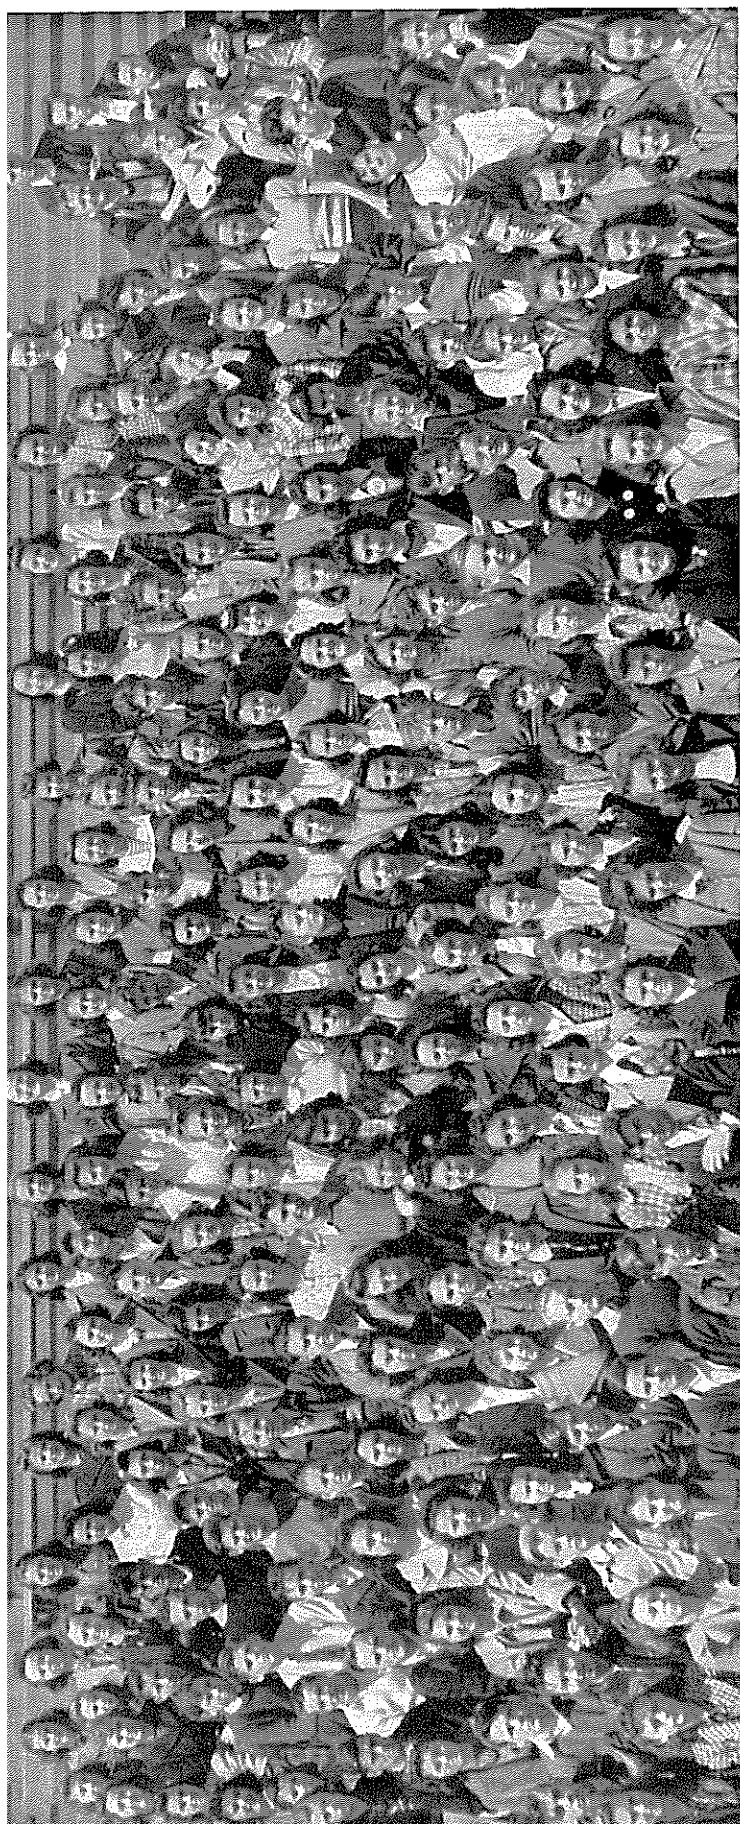

With money received from this, they presented the well-known Utica Jubilee Singers at their annual assembly.

During a meeting of the student body a motion was made to allow all sophomore homerooms to attend pep assemblies. Before this, because of the crowded condition, only a section of the class was permitted to go. Thus all sophomores can now participate in these enthusiastic exhibitions of school spirit!!

Another theater party was planned for late spring. At the time of this writing the class planned to introduce a new feature into the life of the school, in the Form of a Sophomore Hop. Planned also was the annual class picnic at Ellicott Creek Park.

SCHOOL LIFE

In a democracy each person must recognize the opportunity and responsibility of making his own decisions. Early training in this phase of democracy can be given in schools where many teachers attempt to give students as much free choice in school work as is possible.

ACTIVITIES

One of the underlying principles of a democracy is freedom of assembly. Our clubs and other organizations illustrate this characteristic as they are supervised only by a faculty adviser. Through a student council the student is able to voice his opinion in the administration of the school.

KENITORIAL CHIEFS

Their appointment approved by the senior class, Marion Arnoldi and Robert Miller became editors-in-chief of the 1939 "Kenitorial." Business managers Bert Schillo and John Harris have respectively sold more yearbooks than have been sold in recent years and have carried on a successful advertising drive. Marcia Lang designed the book. Miss Jeanette Underwood's third period design class under Miss Mary Margaret Cook executed the division pages in pencil dust.

First row: Harris, Miller, Arnoldi, Schillo

Second row: Mr. Vosburgh, advisor

"Kenitorial" pictures were taken earlier than usual this year so that the designing of the book could begin. Instead of word counts, letter units counted for greater accuracy. Before Easter the design of this year's book was ready for the printer and the engraver to estimate the cost.

One problem before the editors was the selection of the class poem. English IV teachers were unable to choose between Jean Massucci's and Ross's, the senior officers tried. Voting two to two, the officers passed it to the editors, who, together with Mrs. Gertrude Chittenden, finally broke deadlock.

STUDENT COUNCIL

From its theater party of the last year the Student Council gained a profit of seventy-five dollars, which is to be used for pins, assemblies, and general expenses.

Still under consideration is the publishing of handbooks to be presented to incoming senior high school students. If this were done, the office would edit them in the manner it saw fit.

Even though the price was reduced from ten cents to five cents, student dancing still showed a profit. For the first time the cheer leading squad has been organized under a new amendment to the school constitution, and it is planned that beginning next year, cheer leaders, will receive instruction from a member of the faculty.

An increase in sales was noted from the sale of athletic tickets for football and basketball games. For next year the Boys' Letter Club was given the duty of supervising the selling of the season tickets. This will be a new job for the club, and a better sale is expected.

A better dance to be held at night was considered, and the revision of cheer leading was discussed.

In March a Student Council assembly was held when one amendment to the constitution was proposed and passed. It concerned the election of class officers. Instead of being elected by a majority vote, they will be elected by a plurality vote in the future. The same amendment concerned the class advisers. From now on three faculty members will be chosen by the concerned officers, Student Council president, and Principal Roy G. Freeman. The class will then vote on the one they want.

Instead of electing the representative to the student council on the presidential ballot, another election is to be held.

SUB COUNCIL

Instead of holding many meetings, which in the opinion of president Ward Moore are superfluous, this year's Sub-council adopted a new policy. Its work has consisted in carrying out four theater parties for the various classes and organizing the Boys' Letter Club under Harry Richards.

Student dancing was under the direction of Merwin Morrison and Richard Newell, who are council members.

Reorganized this year was the Student Publicity Board, which furnished material of school activities to outside papers.

First row: Hendler, Beier, Spitzer, Moore, chairman; W. Anderson, Russell, Morrison.
Second row: Duchscherer, Martin, Downs, Lang, Craig, Guess.
Third row: Yount, Newell, Richards, Schillo, Maier, Seeley, L. Anderson, Hagerty.

One of the aims of "The Rostrum" this year was to uphold the standards set by last year's paper which won first prize for excellency at the Western New York Inter-scholastic Press Association meeting. "The Rostrum" received 960 points out of a possible 1000.

The points considered were excellency on news values and sources, news writing and editing, editorials, entertainment matter, headlines, make-up, and typography.

A student poll by "The Rostrum" on the Munich settlement reflected student opinion concerning that crisis.

Announcing in its May issue the valedictorian and salutatorian of the senior class and the king and queen of the junior prom, "The Rostrum" surprised even some of those chosen when it divulged this news.

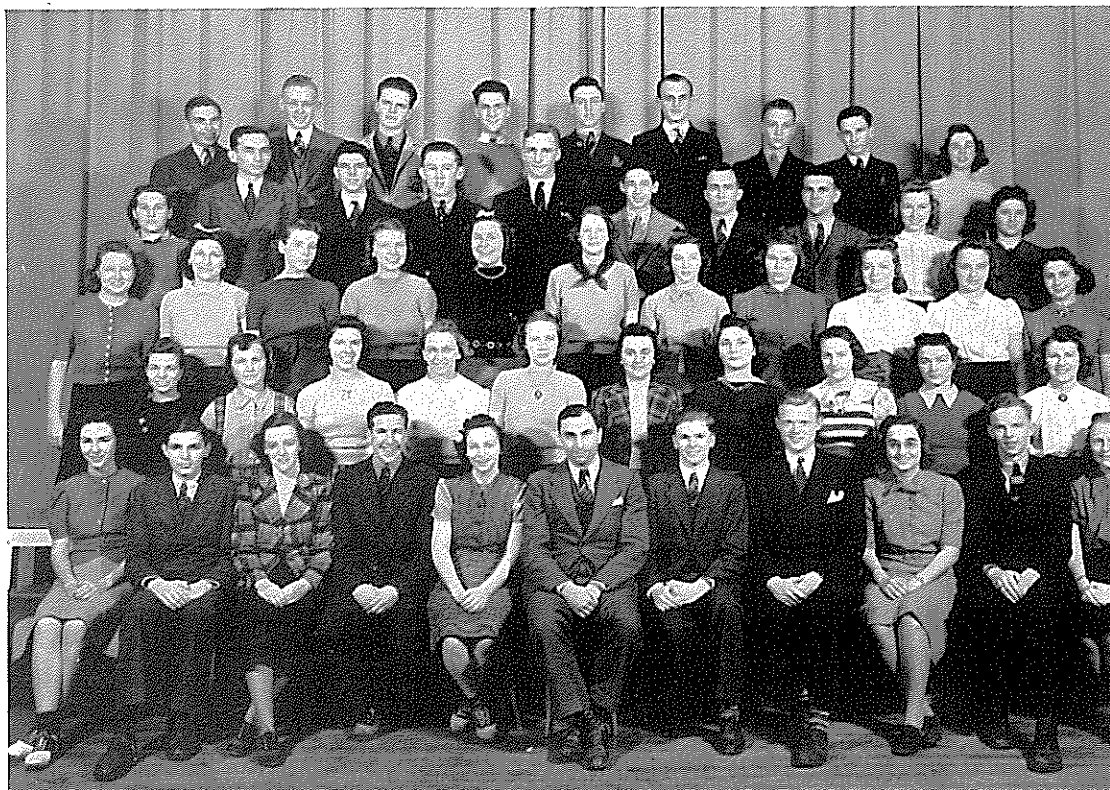

First row: Holland, Smith, Mahlman, Farley, Massucci, editor-in-chief; Mr. Vosburgh, adviser; Moore, business manager; Weller, Hutchinson, Wilson, Arnoldi.

Third row: Logan, Lutes, Ryan, Sheppy, Kratzer, Godard, Mason, Guess, Darrow, Duchscherer, Edighoffer.

Fourth row: Martin, Maier, Greene, Schillo, Lathrop, Grier, Attmore, Driver, Lang, Klimmer.

Fifth row: Yount, B. Miller, Seeley, Frost, Spitzer, Harris, Newell, Confrey, Kessler.

ROSTRUM

THESPIANS

Entertaining the student body by presenting several one-act plays was one of the outstanding activities of the "Thespians," the national honorary society which interests pupils in gaining recognition in dramatics.

Members presented the following plays: "Bargains in Cathay," "Etiquette," a "Cavalcade" scene, "Red Carnations," "The Impertinence of the Creature," "Twelve-Pound Look," and "Little Father of the Wilderness."

Through the "National Thespian Magazine" information of the activities of schools throughout the country is available. Since the society is honorary and national, Thespians are recognized and given a definite reward for their work.

First row: Woller, Koehnlein, vice-president; Maier, president; Miss Strong, adviser; A treasurer; Hutchinson, secretary; Twing.
Second row: Cochrane, Schillo, Weller, Lathrop, Spencer, Graham, Farley, Whittleton.
Third row: Meehan, Lang, Holland, Logan, Mahlman, Massucci, Lewis.

With its first production, "The Youngest," in October, "Mask and Wig" starts its annual activities.

Old-time movies were an outstanding feature of one meeting. A Christmas play in pantomime was presented by the club with the chorus. Four student directed plays, and the best were given in assembly.

To learn to act, to present plays for student entertainment and to appreciate fine drama are the aims of the dramatic club.

MASK & WIG

First row: Raunick, Woller, Koehnlein, Lewis, secretary; Miss Strong, adviser; Schillo, treasurer; Greig, vice president; Massucci, Marks, Dean.
Second row: Thurber, Worth, Butman, Blankheit, Godard, Butt, Doherty, Fitch, Mitchell, Cornwell.
Third row: Metzger, Saling, Mahlman, Swift, Meehan, Smith, Thomas, Hutchinson, Murray.
Fourth row: D. Martin, Cochrane, Allen, Dunbar, Lincoln, Tauffner, Attmore, Driver, Hemstreet, Day.
Fifth row: Gudgel, Graham, Wilson, Weller, Spencer, Dearing, Hall, Whittleton, Reimann.

First row: Gudgel, Greene, W. Branton, coach; Miller.

DEBATE

Losing only one debate out of twelve the largest number ever contested the debate team finished its season successfully. The subject debated the entire year was: Resolved, "That the United States Form an Alliance with Great Britain." Since a debate staged in assembly met with general approval, future ones were planned.

Captain of the affirmative team, Elliot McGinnis while Robert Maier is captain of the negative side.

For those interested in acquiring pre-law experience, the debate workshop offers training in arguing and in oral expression.

At their meetings, the members analyze the faults of their previous debates and seek methods for improvement.

HI-Y

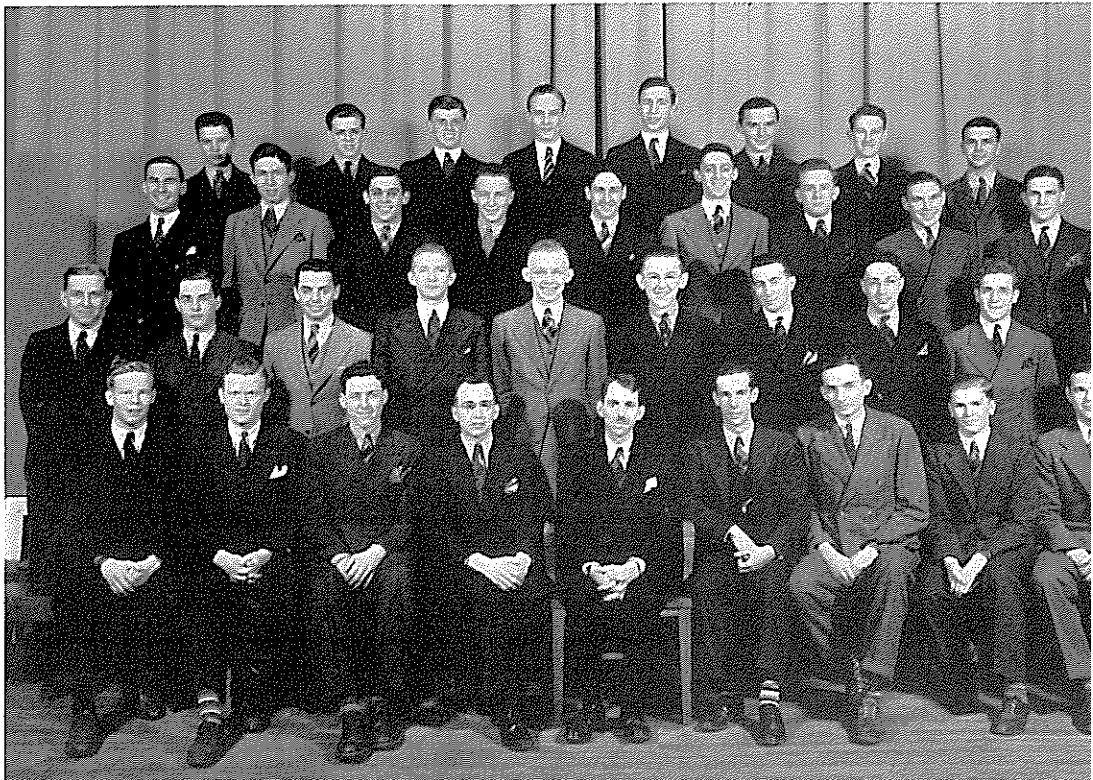

To create, maintain, and extend high standards of Christian character throughout the school and community is the purpose of the Kenmore Senior Hi-Y Club. Fundamentally concerned with developing the entire boy, physically, mentally, morally, and socially, the Hi-Y Club has planned its weekly meetings to conform with such a program.

Each meeting includes a devotional period and discussion of a topic of immediate interest to young men of this age, such as: public speaking, friendships, studying, and religion.

Of the club's activities this year, the most outstanding have been: holding a Mother-and-son banquet, sponsoring the College Clinic, and maintaining a camp fund for a needy boy.

Eight deputation services were scheduled throughout the year, including two services at Warsaw and Perry, and one at Jamestown.

First row: Smith, Weller, treasurer; Spitzer, recording secretary; Attmore, vice president; W. Branton, adviser; Anderson, president; Maier, corresponding secretary; Moore, Carter.
Second row: Trull, Rycroft, Dearing, Booth, Miller, Schillo, Wilson, Lindeman, MacGregor, Schmitt.
Third row: Wright, Busch, Hermann, Newell, Richards, Geyr, Martin, Yount, Brauer.
Fourth row: Inskip, Marshlow, Waldron, Voll, Paulson, Glor, Tarbell, Driver.

ALPHA PHI LAMBDA

To encourage creative writing, to improve literary style, and to develop critical powers through the criticisms and discussions carried on at its meetings are the purposes of Alpha Phi Lambda.

Under Janet Lewis, editor-in-chief, and the editorial board, the club's original publication, "The Flame," was the major activity for the year.

Ben H. Darrow, head of the educational program for WBEN, spoke at one of the meetings about radio scripts.

A skating party was held in March at the Kenmore Roller Rink. To close its year's activities, Alpha Phi Lambda planned its annual banquet for June.

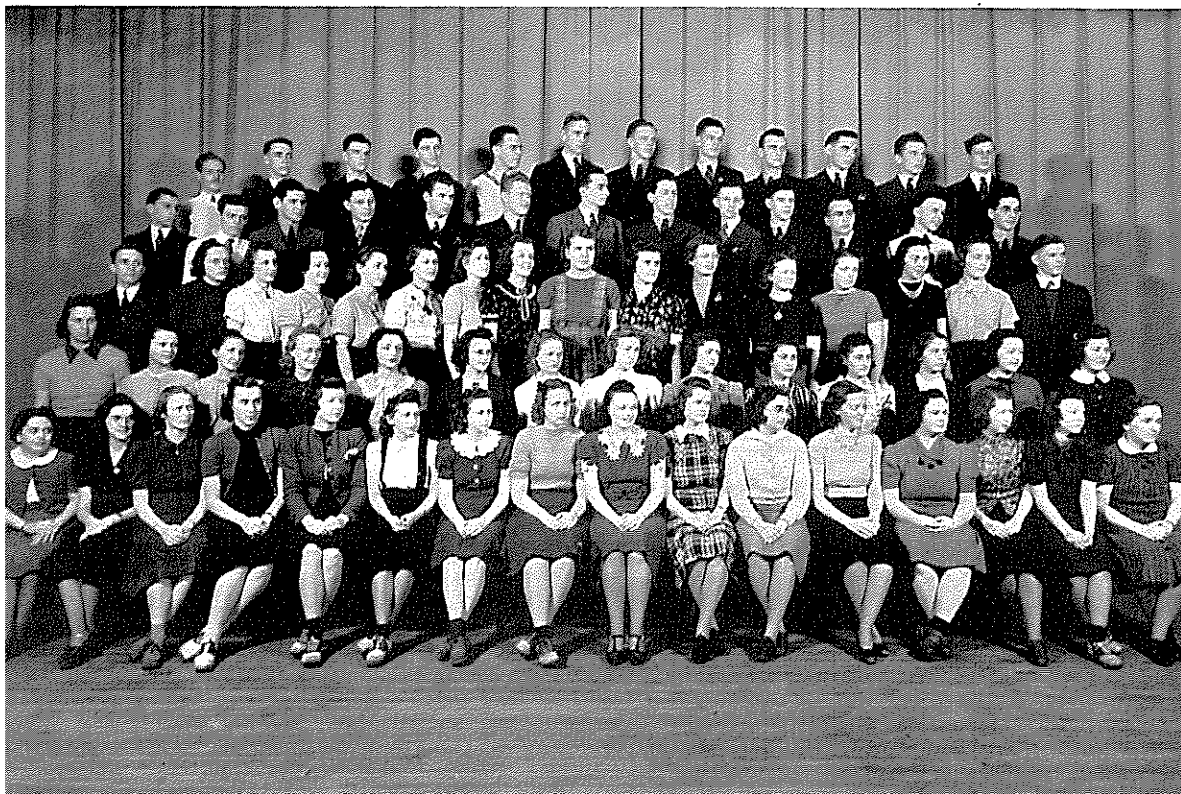

First row: Butman, Mattingly, treasurer; Hufstater, secretary; Miss Chittenden, Mahlman, president; Dean, vice-president; Koehnlein.
Second row: Day, Cornwell, Thompson, Hutchinson, Glennie, Stall, Marsh, Lewis.
Third row: Pugsley, Saling, Irvine, Weller, Lathrop, Baer, Crocker, Kean.
New or Absent Members: Ross, Osgood, Bixby, Ayrault, Leeder, Otto.

Valedictorian Elizabeth Mahlman and salutatorian Allyn Kimball head a group of 73 honor students out of 363 seniors, the largest Honor Club and senior class in the school's history. To be eligible for the two top positions a student must have attended his junior and senior years in Kenmore High School.

Membership is restricted to those maintaining an 85% average in the final examinations for three and one-half years of high school.

First row: Wirges, Loomis, Arnoldi, Morgan, Koehnlein, Bone, Massucci, Larson, S. Hutchinson, Butman, N. Hutchinson, Mahlman, Lewis, Marsh, Dean, Culbertson.

Second row: Gilchrist, Smyth, Hamilton, Schwemle, Tonge, Taylor, King.
Third row: Bjork, Cimador, Goetz, Hempstead, Lang.

ART ROUND TABLE

At its annual Christmas sale, the Art Round Table netted a profit of seventy-five dollars. The sales consisted of members' work: sketches, leather goods, oil paintings, wooden plates and block print luncheon sets. Before Easter an exhibit of oil work was held at the art center of State Teachers College.

To promote a knowledge of current art and to attend exhibits of contemporary artists are the aims of the club.

At the beginning of the year banquet was held at Tyne's. A private art exhibit, with prizes, was planned for early May when this was written.

During the evening meetings the last semester, the members studied sculpturing.

Varied topics of interest to the members of the Science Club were discussed by outside speakers throughout the year.

Arthur Swartz of the Kenmore Camera Club spoke on photography. At another meeting a representative from the Dupont Rayon and Cellophane Company, Mr. Hayden, showed movies and discussed the making of cellophane.

Dr. David Miller, chief bacteriologist at the Buffalo City Hospital, addressed the club. A fourth speaker, Miss Dorothy Rainer, gave an account of the round-the-world trip which she took last year.

Miss Florence Addison showed movies of her trip to South Africa.

SCIENCE

LATIN

At its Christmas meeting at the Latin Club held its outstanding program of the year, a play musical selections were given play contrasted the Christmas traditions of ancient Rome and modern America.

Before the Christmas holidays members sent a basket to a family. For its February meeting club went on a sleigh-ride party.

Talent night was held at the meeting. Through its meetings club hopes to arouse interest in classical studies and also to provide a different environment from classroom for a social hour.

First row: Bixby, Huebsch, Greig, J. Grist, consul; Mahlman, consul; Hutchinson, Arnoldi, Marsh.

Second row: Blankheit, Butman, Morgan, Godard, Schaertel, Ehinger, Butt, Culbertson.

Third row: Lewis, Howe, Massucci, Day, V. Grist, Huebschwerlen, Aungst.

To educate members concerning business activities and procedure and to promote friendship among girls in the commercial department are the aims of the Secretarial Club.

The club has had speakers who represent business fields or current interests. Mrs. Helen Buckley of Bryant and Stratton spoke about the need of a pleasing personality in business. Members have contributed to programs through the research committee by giving reports on interviews with business people.

SECRETARIAL

First row: Wilde, Johnson, Sowers, Klimmer, Steele, vice-president; Edighoffer, president; Miss Hunt, adviser; Pepper, treasurer; Connolly, secretary; Kessler, Zimmerman, Wiktorowska, Winstel.

Fourth row: Cage, Ryan, Svensson, Kyle, Sahlin, Clifton, M. Kepler, Herrmann, Schwarz, Nemet Dobony.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

"Le Petit Malade" and "Au Parc A Paris" were two French plays presented by students of Mlle Marie-Jeanne Gendreau's French III classes at two different meetings of "Le Cercle Francais."

Meeting monthly, club members devote the evenings' programs to an appreciation of France and the language through charades, discussions, games, puzzles, plays, and Christmas songs.

By these activities the club aims to speak French solely and to learn the customs and civilization of France. Putting on plays in the foreign language is another aim of "Le Cercle Francais."

First row: Hoffman, Buck, Martin, president; Attmore, secretary; Mlle. Gendreau, advisor; Inskip, treasurer; Austin, Thomas, Twing.
Second row: Craig, Durbin, Koehnlein, Jordan, Caruso, Easterbrook, Ellsworth, Finch.
Third row: Logan, Barrett, Mason, Hargraves, Glunz, Rae, Musty, Williamson.
Fourth row: Monrian, Hutchinson, Mahiman, Spitzer, Graham, McGinnies, Swift, Kramer.
Fifth row: Murray, Down, Steward, Tauffner, Coleman, Brotherston, Duchscherer.

GERMAN CLUB

"Der Deutsche Verein", during the past year, has had two speakers—Carolii Georgi, a former German now living in the U. S. who spoke about her form country, and Miss Dorothy Rainer who recalled the high lights of her world trip.

In October members of the German Club played games. In December they presented Christmas plays, and the club had an amateur stunt night at the March meeting. A novelty for the club was a puppet show at the April meeting.

First row: Raunick, Schillo, secretary; Ressel, Trudell, president; Miss Harms, adviser; Herrmann, Anderson, treasurer; Powers, Kean.
Second row: Confrey, Broderson, Wagner, Huebschwerlen, Kuehner, Ditsch, Larson, Rellinger.

Fourth row: Leiser, Yotter, Pohl, Dorsey, Seiffe, Hitzeman, Erickson.

LAW

Organized last year by a group of boys of the commercial department, the law club, otherwise known as the "Junto Club," has now a membership of 19.

During the year social and economic problems were discussed such as chain stores vs. independent grocers, social security, unemployment insurance, and relief topics. The club's purpose is to get together in round table discussions after the topics have been debated by two on the negative and two on the affirmative side.

First row: Sabatino, vice-president; Mr. Pitkin, adviser; Dietterich, president; Mr. Gr viser; Maynard, secretary.
Second row: Seeley, Graham, W. Johnson, McCormick, R. Johnson, Merkle.
Third row: Hamister, Newell, Marshlow, Melbrod, Boyle.

About five years ago, students of Mrs. Alise Cowles Van Wies's advanced French classes met to form the school's second French Club. "Sans Souci" (in English: without a care) has now had Miss Ann Conn as adviser for the last two years.

"Sans Souci" has been organized this year only since January. Not as a supplementary class, but as a medium of improving ease in French conversation, the club centers its interest in the French language, culture, and civilization.

Games and songs are an outstanding feature of the club's meetings. In March a musical program was held with songs, piano selections, and a talk on composers.

Another time members studied menus from French restaurants.

SANS SOUCI

First row: Aspinall, B. Thompson, Busch, secretary; Cook, vice-president; Miss Conn, adviser;

Fourth row: Dearing, Stevens, Durrell, Geyer, Spencer, Lincoln, Waldron, Mutchler, C. Thompson.

GIRLS' LETTER CLUB

The Girls' Letter Club is composed of those girls that have earned at least one school letter. The club's purpose is to promote athletic and social activities involving good sportsmanship. Money was raised for the "K's" by selling candy. The club held a Sports Banquet at which time letters were presented. Another activity was a swimming party for new members.

First row: Berry, Stahl, Ross, Craig, Moffat, Huntington.
Second row: Chapple, Kean, Martin, Miss Kauffman, adviser; Cushing, president; Wiktorowska, Edighoffer.
Third row: Morrison, Grieg, Bone, Doyle, Clum, Clifton, Zawisza, Massucci.

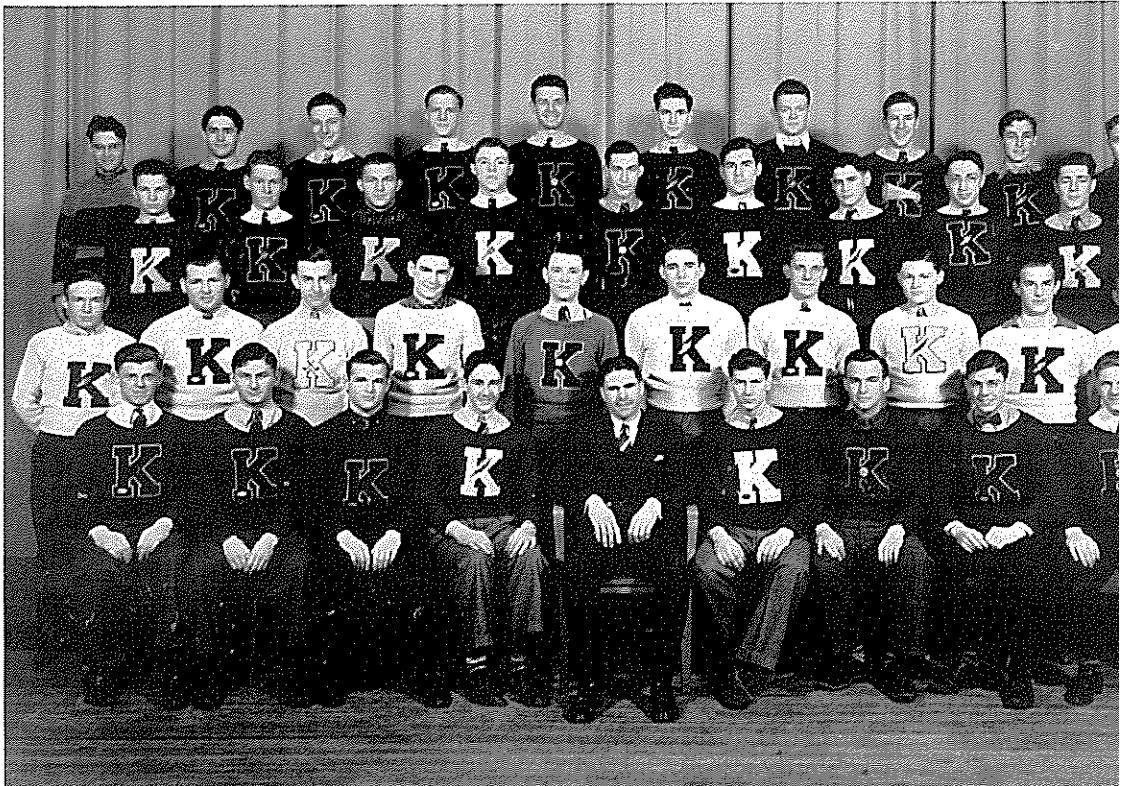

This year the Boys' Letter Club revised its constitution, making all lettermen eligible to apply for membership, but not automatically members.

Activities this year included two assemblies. In the fall football letters were awarded, and Joe Bach, football coach at Niagara University, spoke. In the spring swimming and basketball letters were awarded, and sports movies were shown. The sport banquet was partly financed by a skating party held April 24.

Plans for next year are to include the sale of season tickets for football and basketball games, the handling of sports publicity, cooperation with the student council and other organizations in the promotion of better school citizenship through better sportsmanship, and the encouragement of intramural sports.

 Standing: Farmer, Merkle, Mr. Hann, director.

By playing at both the Kenmore Junior and Senior High School graduations, the annual banquet of the Mothers' Club, the faculty play, and at various assemblies, the orchestra has obtained opportunities for public appearance.

Of the three bands, A, B, and C, the A band, being the advanced one, usually plays at the football games, pep assemblies, and letter day assemblies.

On April 5 the band played selections from the opera "Faust" in assembly in cooperation with the English department. Last November the band assisted in an Armistice Day program. The band planned its annual concert for May.

For the annual festival contest which takes place in April, it was planned that several Kenmore High School students should enter. Leigh Merkle, Herbert Schultz, and Chauncey MacBay comprised the boys' trumpet trio while the girls' trumpet trio consisted of Grace Howell, Janet Ellsworth, and Harriett Arnold.

In the girls' clarinet trio were Doris Hoffman, Lois Hoffman and Mildred Yochum. Paul Maynard, Ralph Eisert, and Donald Riley composed the boys' clarinet trio.

George Ryan and Joan Fox played piano solos, and George Ryan played the sousaphone.

At the festival contest it was also planned when this was written that Grace Howell and Herbert Schultz should play trumpet solos.

ATHLETICS

Besides acquiring the title of "Mad Macs," Kenmore's football team swept through one of its most successful seasons by gaining four wins against three losses during the fall of '38.

This unusual good fortune was the result of honest work on the part of the players during practice sessions and during actual games. Enthusiasm among the fans helped to bring about the highest profit in four years.

Each year, for the past three years, Kenmore has succeeded in winning one more game than the previous year, and although they will face two new powerful foes next season in Lackawanna and La Salle instead of Batavia and Depew, the prospects for keeping this record intact are good, according to coach Richard Offenhamer.

Kenmore 28	Depew	6
Kenmore 0	Niagara Falls	19
Kenmore 37	Batavia	0
Kenmore 12	Trott	7
Kenmore 6	N. Tonawanda	30

Not in picture: Livengood, Gerth, Schasre, Repich, Quinn, Gary, assistant manager.

BASKETBALL=

Entering the St. Lawrence League playoffs for the first time in many years, Kenmore courtmen captured third place in this final round by losing to Niagara Falls in the first game and beating Tonawanda in the second.

During the fourteen scheduled games of the 1939 season, the Blue and White quintet scored double wins over Lockport, Trott, North Tonawanda, and Batavia although they suffered twin losses at the hands of Niagara Falls, Lackawanna, and Tonawanda. The season ended with Kenmore in a third place berth in season standing.

Excellent pass work and ball handling, more than excellent shooting was responsible for the team's success for they played a fast offense which kept the ball in rapid motion until it reached scoring position. Thus, although scoring was centered around Captain Eddie Cochern, it was the fine playing of his teammates which helped him to star.

Captain Cochern, incidentally, tied the record for points in one game in the early season contest against Batavia. This record had been established by Joe Niland from Tonawanda and was broken in the latter part of this season by his brother Tommy of the same school. Kenmore's captain, however, was able to establish a new record for season scoring with a total of one hundred and seventy-four points.

TRACK

Entering its first meet against East Aurora, Jamestown, and Dunkirk on May 12, the 1939 track squad looked forward to a promising season. Although previous seasons have seen the Blue and White team excel in running events and be defeated in the field contests, this year presents a well-balanced squad which should claim victory in more events, according to Coach "Wes" Snyder.

An experienced line-up consists this year of Turner, in the 100-yard dash; Lindeman and Rycroft in the 220; Waldron as the quarter mile man; Malco and Pastor in the half mile; and Kirst as the miler. In the field events the Blue and White will be represented by Taylor on the hurdles; Kirkwood, broad-jumping; Weller, Brown, and Monroe on the high-jump; L. Michael on the pole vault; and Foley with the shot put and discus.

The 1939 schedule presents:

May 12.....East Aurora, Jamestown, Dunkirk, Kenmore, at Kenmore.
 May 20.....Batavia, Lockport, Kenmore, at Batavia.
 May 27.....Lockport Invitational Meet at Lockport.
 June 2.....Batavia, Lockport, Kenmore, at Kenmore.
 June 10.....Zone Meet at Kenmore.

 Third row: Porter, Rycroft, Gary, Gunderson, Glor, Waldron, Schmitt.
 Fourth row: Newell, Pastor, Voll, Swierczynski, Weller, Hopkins, Monroe.

SWIMMING=

Making a better showing than was expected, the K.H.S. tank squad placed ten swimmers in the Western New York Swimming League finals to capture a second berth with 26 points.

Snyder cinched the 220-yard free style with a record time of 2:32. Warren won the 100-yard free style race to establish a new record of 55:8. First place in the 100-yard back stroke was taken by Beck. The K.H.S. medley relay team took first place to win a gold cup.

The following is the squad's schedule for the 1939 season:

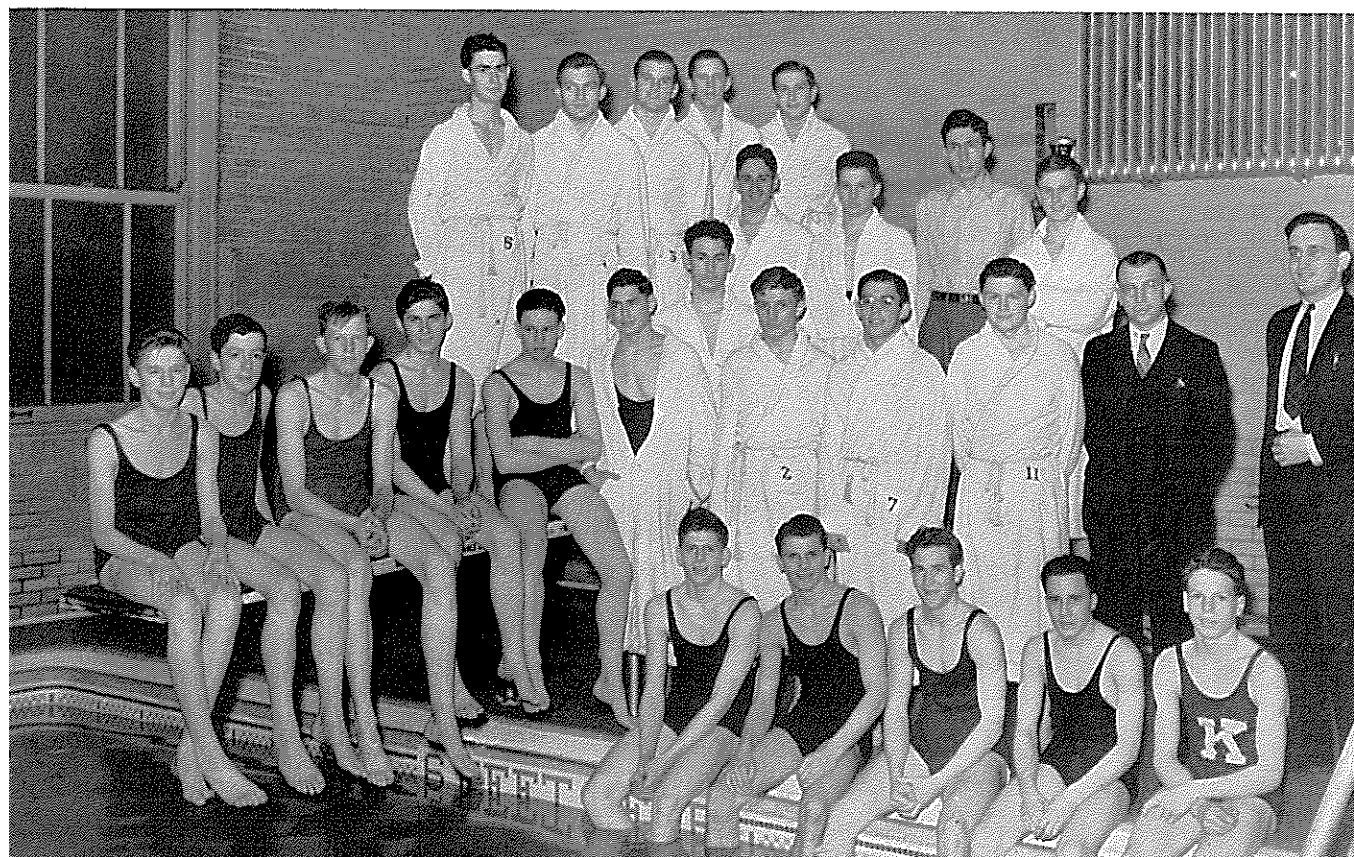

Kenmore 28 vs. Tonawanda 38, there
Kenmore 40 vs. Niagara Falls 24, here
Kenmore 35 vs. Amherst 29, here
Kenmore 24 vs. North Tonawanda 37, here

 Second row: Fischer; Bredemeier; Monroe; Clinton; Hickey.

At the beginning of the 1939 season a tennis league, made up of Niagara Falls, the Tonawandas, DeVeaux, and Kenmore, was formed with common eligibility rules to govern future matches. Besides experience gained in winter indoor games the Kenmore squad early in May began outdoor practice which contributed largely to the success of this year's team.

The golf team was helped to as successful a season as the tennis team by the five golfsters returning from last year. Lettermen Clary Murray, Alvan White, and Kenneth Hufstater, in addition to squad members Daniel O'Donnell and Anson Shupe, and the early practice at the Grover Cleveland and Audubon courses played a large part in this success. Coach Sherwood Miller pointed out, "Increased interest among boys has resulted in an improvement of the quality of golf with more and more boys consistently shooting in the low 90's."

First row: Murray, Hufstater, White, C. Sherwood Miller.
 Second row: O'Donnell, Wilson, Shupe, Twing.

--- --- TENNIS

Enjoying the best season that of four years ago, the squad won ten and lost four of its matches. Amherst was defeated in two fall matches 5-0.

The Blue and White combination reached the final round of sectionals. However, at the time they were defeated in the match by Wilson High School in the doubles match by Tonawanda.

Outstanding in this competition were McCullough, singles star, who won eight of his matches, and the doubles team of Eisenberger and Clinton who were victorious in eleven of their contests.

The Kenmore High School squad's 1938 schedule was split into a spring and a fall season. Below are the results of the spring matches:

Kenmore	4	Trott
Kenmore	0	Depew
Kenmore	1	Niagara Falls
Kenmore	5 1/2	East Aurora
Kenmore	2 1/2	La Salle
Kenmore	3	Amherst
Kenmore	0	De Veaux

Below is the outcome of the fall season:

Kenmore	9 1/2	Trott
Kenmore	2	Depew
Kenmore	1	Niagara Falls
Kenmore	0	East Aurora
Kenmore	2 1/2	De Veaux
Kenmore	3	Amherst
Kenmore	5 1/2	La Salle

Clark Murray led the scoring this season followed by Hufstater, White, Shupe, and O'Donnell.

CHEERLEADERS

"Go, Kenmore, go; go, Kenmore go—hit 'em high, hit 'em low—go, Kenmore go!" Thus the voices of the student body were lifted in response to the cheerleaders these past seasons.

"Bud" Farley and "Dori" Ditsch received medals in the April Letter Day assembly for their three years of service. In the same assembly "Al" Martin, "Jackie" Meehan and "Bert" Hoadley received cheerleading "K's." In addition to these, there are sophomore students, "Ollie" Tenbrook, "Mac" McKenneth and Tom Farley, who will carry on the laurels next season.

It is rumored that the leaders will have regulation uniforms next season.

ALMA MATER

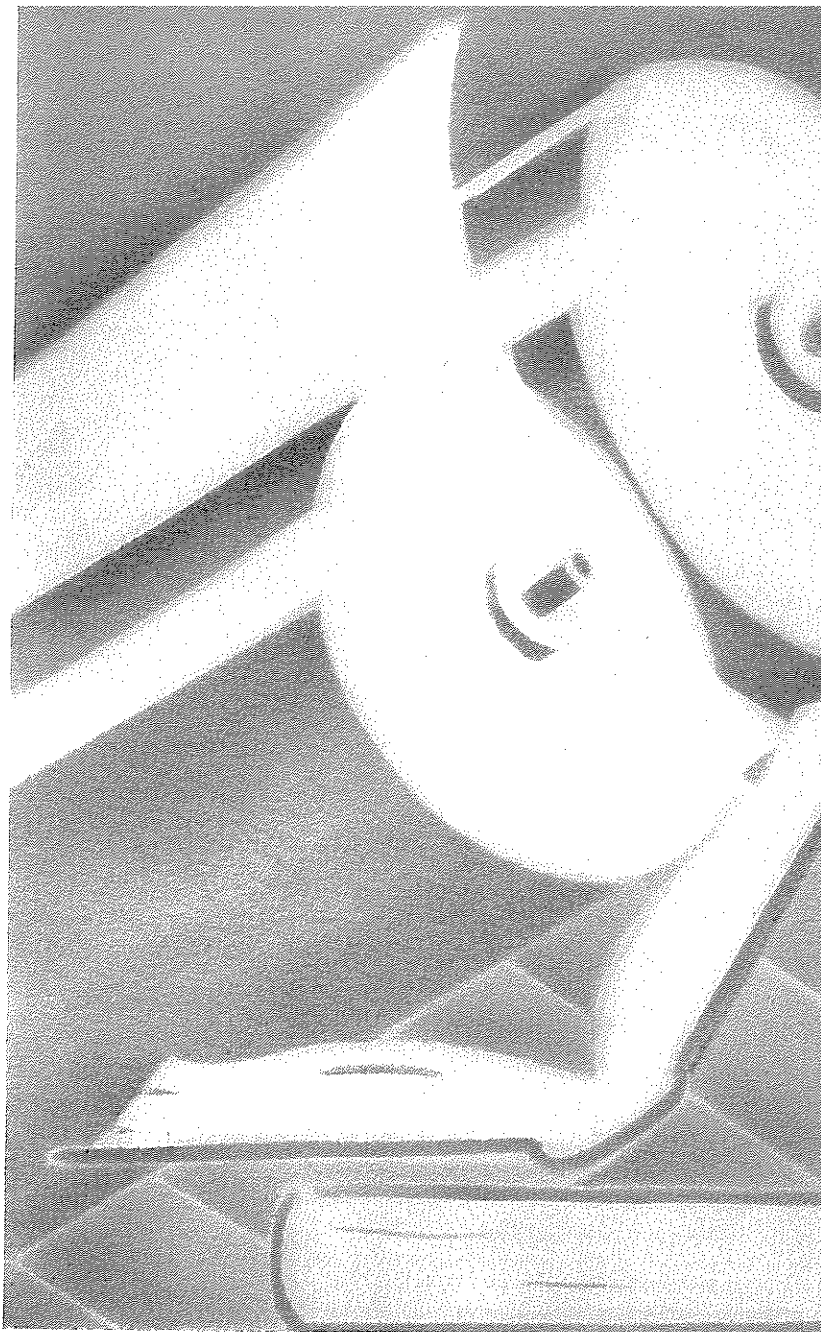

O loy-al sons and daugh-ters lift your voi-ces Praise Al-ma Ma-ter in our
 We who are tread-ing in her hap-py path-ways Strive to up-hold her stand-ards hearts en-shrined Sing of her vic-tries splen-did sing of her fame un-end-ed

 ev-er high They who have fought and con-quer-ed urged by her spir-it on-ward

Hail her light be-nign— Light that is shin-ing from her class-ic halls—
 For-ward be their cry— Life-long loy-al-ty we pledge to thee—

Light thru the dark-ness that in ra-diance falls Ev-er will guide us on where O Al-ma Ma-ter may we ev-er be True sons and daughters of thy du-ty calls Sing to Ken-more Al-ma Mat-er Al-ma Mat-er mine!

 spir-it free Sing to Ken-more Al-ma Mat-er Al-ma Mat-er mine!

ADVERTISEMENTS

Financed largely by advertisers, periodicals and radio programs are powerful agents in keeping the ideal of freedom of speech alive in the public mind. By exercising this privilege and by reminding the people of their right to it, the press and radio form another safeguard of democracy.

ASK YOUR OCULIST

If you harbor a feeling that the day's work is beyond you, consult an oculist (physician eye-specialist).

Many times strained eyes put a drag on the nervous system — harmful, enervating and increasingly dangerous.

BUFFALO OPTICAL COMPANY

Guildcraft Opticians — Spectacle and Eye-Glass Makers

Kenmore: 2830 Delaware Avenue

Buffalo: 559 Main Street and 297 Main Street

If you do not know an oculist we will gladly supply a list.
